High Prices Cut Sale of Meat

Dealers Confirm Drop Here

Housewives Cut Orders Thinner

Mansfield meat dealers are feeling the effect of a "buyers' strike" against high prices which is becoming nation wide. Business has been "off" for the past month, some dealers said, and one market reported that its customers are only buying about one-third of the amount they normally purchase.

While other dealers said that they had not noticed any radical decrease in the volume of business, most of them agreed that customers are cutting down to some degree in their purchases. The decrease is not just in the higher priced cuts, but all down the line.

"People are buying much smaller quantities," is the way one dealer put it. "Last Saturday was the slowest day we have had in five or ten years."

Another butcher said that business had been very poor the last two weeks, but he attributed it to the fact that many Westinghouse and Mansfield Tire employes were out of town on vacation. "Business seems to have picked up this week with their return to work," he said.

PRICES HOLD UP

But the buyers strike in Mansfield does not seem to be having much effect on prices. The better cuts of beef such as round, sirloin, and T-bone steak are still selling for 95 cents to $1.05 a pound.

The Federal-State Crop Reporting service announced today that Ohio farmers received new all-time high prices for beef and lambs during the month ending July 15. A world's record for wholesale hog prices was reported Monday in Cleveland when prices went to $32 per 100 pounds.

The report showed that beef cattle sold at $28 per hundred pounds and lamb at $26.80 per hundred pounds. Hogs on July 15 sold at $28, equalling the all-time high established last Oct. 15.

NO RELIEF SEEN

Meanwhile the movement to halt the rise of living costs was still spreading. Even where there is no organized buyers strike, housewives are refusing to buy the luxury-priced meat.

Arthur E. Dennis, vice president of the National Meat council, said that resistance to high prices had reduced sales sharply. But, he predicted, the price situation will be much worse by winter. He said he saw no sign of relief.

As sales decreased, some packing houses reported that there were plans to lay off workers because of decreased orders.

'Death Leap' Driver Held

CINCINNATI —(INS)— William Jackson, 20, was held for grand jury action today after a 16-year-old Cincinnati high school girl died in a leap from his auto.

Jackson admitted yesterday he was the driver of the car from which Carol Marx and her companion Patricia Brown, also 16, jumped Saturday night. Miss Brown suffered only minor injuries.

She told police she and Miss Marx entered the car when they missed the last bus from a suburban Ault park dance. She said they jumped "when the driver refused to let them out and attempted to make advances."

Ohio Closed To Dixiecrats

COLUMBUS —(UP)— Southern "Dixiecrats" today scratched Ohio off the list of states in which they hoped to enter their ticket of anti-Truman Democrats.

Edward J. Hummel, secretary of state, informed Walker Wood of Mississippi, a leader in the "Dixiecrat" movement, that the deadline for filing nominating petitions was last night.

Wood had asked Hummel for information on what steps were necessary to get a slate of electors entered in this state.

Horse Wins In Tangle With Truck

WOOSTER —(INS)— Truck Driver Paul J. Miller of Navarre, O., considered with more respect today the admonition, "buy a horse."

Miller's pickup truck tangled with a horse and buggy on Route 30 east of Wooster yesterday, and Miller came out second best by far.

The truck smashed into the buggy, bounced across the highway and crashed into a tractor-trailer outfit. Miller suffered a fractured shoulder and face lacerations.

The buggy was demolished, but the two occupants and the horse were unscratched.

GOP Aiming To Adjourn By Saturday

Congress Urged To Speed Action

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The House today passed a Republican anti-inflation bill after blocking any consideration of President Truman's limited price, rationing and wage control program.

★

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Republican leaders dangled a tempting reward—adjournment Saturday—before a campaign-minded Congress today.

To win the prize, they asked lawmakers to give high-speed approval of these things:

1. A GOP anti-inflation program limited to controls over time payment buying and some tightening of bank credit through added reserves.

2. A housing bill aimed at government aid in producing more homes in the $4,500 to $6,000 class.

3. A $65,000,000 loan to the United Nations to build some of the many structures needed for the New York City headquarters site.

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the Republican policy committee told a reporter "there is a good chance" that the entire program can be pushed through in time to end the special session this week end.

He added, however, that he does not want another late Saturday night session like the June windup.

One of the major obstacles to ending the "turnip day" session called by President Truman was hurdled late yesterday when the Senate put the anti-poll tax bill back on the shelf.

A score of southern members had tied up the Senate for five days by filibuster tactics.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader and Mr. Truman's vice presidential running mate, bitterly protested this surrender on the civil rights issue.

But when the roll was called, 24 Democrats joined with the solidly voting 45 Republicans to snow under the administration forces by a count of 69 to 16.

Action Might Sink Floating Race Bookies

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A proposed city ordinance cracking down on floating horse race bookies, was being studied today by Police Chief Charles Berry.

Lieut. Lester Bauman, vice squad chief, drew up the proposed law after trial of a man charged with operating a bookie was thrown out of court because there was no proof the man operated in a room or building.

Under the present city law, a bookie must be established in a room or office in order to be prosecuted.

Fines under the revised law will have to be determined by City Attorney Richard Gordon and Safety Director C. C. Cole. Chief Berry said they probably would range from $100 to $500.

Hole-y Smokes, Folks!

Whole Hole Affair's Confusing

Charles Dennis, 200 Crystal Springs road, today charged that his neighbor Roy A. Perry, 29 Crystal Springs road, stole a hole in the ground from him.

Dennis dug a hole on Crystal Springs road for a post to support his rural mail box, he told the Sheriff's office. After struggling to complete his digging in the hard ground he placed his post in the new post hole. He then took his mail box home with him to give it a coat of paint.

Today he returned to put his mail box on the post in his new post hole. The hole was gone. In his post hole, Dennis found Perry's post. His own post lying on the ground.

This morning he reported the theft of his post hole to Sheriff Frank E. Robinson.

After not-too-solemn consultation in the sheriff's office, it was decided to send two deputies to the scene.

The whole hole matter was complicated by the fact that actually neither Dennis nor Perry owns the ground in which the hole was dug. The land is part of the highway right-of-way and is owned by the county.

While waiting for his deputies' report, the sheriff said, with a twinkle, "Probably the simplest way out of this 'whole' business is to have somebody dig another hole!"

TWO POSTS, ONE POST HOLE—Charles Dennis says he dug the hole now occupied by this mailbox lettered with the name of Roy A. Perry. Dennis says that's his post lying on the ground and that it should be in the hole he dug yesterday. Officials are busy trying to keep posted on details of whole affair.

Union Bids For Parley

Dayton Strikers Appeal to Herbert

DAYTON — (AP) — Chastened by National Guardsmen enforcing peace at the strike-bound Univis Lens company plant, CIO United Electrical Workers held out an olive branch today.

The union asked Governor Thomas J. Herbert to arrange another conference with company management to end the three month old strike.

Strike leaders put out a peace feeler even as their headquarters churned out statements assailing the governor as a "union buster."

Arthur I. Garfield, UEW international representative, asked the governor to call another conference.

The blunt-talking governor recalled that UEW members rejected a strike settlement which he arranged between their leaders and the company last Sunday. He declared the union's rank-and file first must authorize its officials to act for them.

The membership of the local last night voted unanimously to grant full such authority to its negotiators at a new conference.

The police radio broadcast a warning that "strong arm" union supporters were on their way from Detroit, Cleveland and Connecticut. There was no amplification of the statement and the report could not be confirmed.

Map Drive Against Housing Chiselers

WASHINGTON — (AP) — U. S. district attorneys and federal housing expediters from all parts of the country met here today to map a new drive against chiseling in veterans' housing.

The Justice department, which arranged the conference, said its aim is "an all-out campaign against those individuals who have violated federal laws in the construction, sale and financing of veterans' homes."

Report Unconfirmed

Claim Huge Plane, 52 Aboard Are Safe

(Compiled from Wire Services)

PARIS—The French News Agency reported without confirmation today the discovery of the giant French seaplane which has been missing with 52 persons aboard.

The 79-ton plane has been missing since Saturday night on a flight from French Martinique in the Caribbean to French West Africa.

The French agency said it had been located 120 miles south of the last radio position it gave before it vanished.

Air France headquarters in Paris said it had no information tending to confirm the Marseille dispatch.

The press agency itself cautioned that the report should be "treated with reserve."

According to the unofficial report, the craft was found 120 miles south of the point from which it last reported all well about midnight Sunday. It was flying from Martinique to West Africa with 40 passengers and a crew of 12.

The last radio report was sent from a point some 1,400 miles west of the African coast and 800 to 900 miles northwest of the Cape Verde Islands.

The Latecoere is the biggest commercial air liner in the world. It has a takeoff weight of about 83 tons, is 141 feet long, and has a wingspread of 186 feet.

The first faint hope for the 52 aboard the plane was aroused yesterday by vague reports of the interception of weak radio messages which might have come from it.

The air and sea forces engaged in the search, including eight American heavy bombers, renewed their efforts and sought to plot the possible origin of the signals.

Reports New Polio Case

Richland county's second case of infantile paralysis of the year was reported late yesterday.

Second victim is Barbara Cocanour, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Cocanour, Mansfield, R. D. 6.

The child became ill Tuesday and was taken to Children's hospital in Columbus for treatment, according to Dr. Harry Wain, city-county health commissioner.

Yesterday the first case was reported by the health authorities. Jack Gaff of 233 Lexington avenue became ill last Friday and was taken to Columbus.

Dr. Wain again emphasized that there is no reason for alarm. He said infantile paralysis normally occurs at this time of the year and that two cases, even when they come so close together, do not forecast an epidemic.

Empire Ups Pay 9 Per Cent

Union Puts OK On Contract

An hourly wage increase of 10 to 25 cents will be granted Empire Steel corporation employes under a contract ratified last night.

The contract between the company and Local 169 of the United Steel Workers was ratified at a special meeting of the union, according to William Bell, staff representative of District 24 of the union.

The contract provides for a wage increase of nine and one-half per cent in all rates. The increase will average 13 cents an hour, the union spokesman said.

1,100 BENEFIT

The contract was ratified after approximately two weeks of negotiating. The increase, which will affect about 1,100 employes, according to Bell, went into effect Aug. 1.

Other provisions in the contract provide for a union shop and the check-off of union dues, or the deducting of dues from paychecks.

The contract with the company was extended until June 1, 1950.

The agreement, however, gives the union the right to reopen negotiations at any time after Aug. 1, 1949, and the right to strike if no agreement is reached.

New Housing Bill Upset

Senate Committee Revives Taft Act

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Senate banking committee today threw out a housing bill prepared by a Senate-House subcommittee and voted to send an amended version of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill to the Senate floor.

Chairman Tobey (R-NH) said the surprise action was taken by a 7-to-5 vote.

Senator Flanders (R-Vt) offered the motion to substitute an amended version of the T.E.W. bill for the subcommittee bill drafted principally by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.)

The T.E.W. bill contains provisions for slum clearance and public housing. The subcommittee bill did not.

It was understood before the committee meeting that McCarthy's measure had been given tentative approval by key Republicans in both houses. It was designed principally to spur production of low cost homes and large-scale rental properties. It did not provide for government-financed housing.

McCarthy told reporters he will fight on the Senate floor to substitute the subcommittee measure for the approved bill.

He predicted that if the Senate passes the modified T.E.W. bill there will be no housing passed at the extra session.

McCarthy said the House leadership would not even permit the bill to go to conference, if passed by the Senate.

President Scoffs At Spy Hunt

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman today called the congressional "spy" investigations a "red herring" to divert attention from lack of action on inflation.

In a written statement, the President asked the Republican congressional leadership to reconsider present plans for "quick adjournment" of the special session. He again asked action on price controls and other phases of his anti-inflation program which the Republicans are planning to ignore.

His remarks on the communist investigations were delivered offhand at a news conference. He said neither Senate nor House inquiries have developed anything not already known to the FBI.

What has been brought out in testimony to the committees proved insufficient to indict those accused, he remarked.

This was in reference to the fact that a New York grand jury has heard most, if not all, of the stories now being unfolded before the congressional committees.

HOPES FOR PEACE

The President said during his news conference he is hopfeul for peace and hopeful the atomic weapon eventually will be outlawed.

Mr. Truman declined to comment on diplomatic negotiations in Moscow. He said, however, when asked about the world outlook that he was always hopeful for peace.

A reporter said it was three years ago that the President gave an order for the release of the atomic bomb on Japanese cities and asked if he was still hopeful it would be outlawed as a weapon.

He replied in the affirmative.

His position has been that the atomic bomb should be outlawed after proper safeguards have been made by the United Nations.

Tyger Drive Set to Open

The Mansfield Tyger Booster club's "Bandwagon No. 2," the second phase of the Tyger club's school support campaign, got off to a rolling start last night when 5,000 membership tickets were distributed among representatives of all Mansfield industries in a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

These tickets will be taken back to the various factories, where campaigns will be inaugurated to give every employe an opportunity to participate in the biggest Tyger Booster campaign yet carried out in the city.

Goal for the campaign is 8,000 members. The drive will start Aug. 16 and continue for 10 days. The date was changed last night from Aug. 11 to the 16th in order to give factory representatives a chance to better organize their employe campaigns. It is expected that every industrial worker in the city will be contacted.

Tonight, chairmen and representatives of the city's 50 neighborhood zones meet at the C. of C rooms to plan neighborhood drives.

Membership fee is $1, but anyone may contribute as much more as he wishes to help assure the campaign a successful conclusion.

Back of the campaign is the growing need of city schools for things which tax-raised money cannot be used. Such things as special band equipment, football team "extras," support of extra debate and music activities so that more students may participate each year, will be provided with the money raised in the Tyger Booster club campaign, according to club officials.

2 Men Flee Reformatory

Two Ohio State reformatory inmates escaped from the institution's poultry farm late yesterday afternoon, Supt. Arthur Glattke, reported today.

The two fugitives are Timothy Sems, 24, received Oct. 19, 1944, and Jack Kidder, 21, received June 5, 1947.

Sams and Kidder were both sentenced from Hamilton county (Cincinnati) for robbery. Sams was sentenced to serve 10 to 25 years and Kidder was sentenced to one to 25 years.

Materials Vital In Research

Details Heard By Committee

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The chairman of a House un-American Activities subcommittee said today that atomic bomb materials were shipped to Russia in 1943 after "Russian agents" had put "tremendous pressure" on the government.

The statement was made during an open committee session by Rep. John McDowell (R-Pa.) he said the shipments included heavy water and two lots of uranium—one of 300 pounds and one of 1,000 pounds.

He said they were shipped from a "small, obscure airfield in the United States."

"The shipments were made to Russia after tremendous pressure on all phases of the American government by Russian agents, some known and acknowledged and others who established themselves by surrepitious methods," he said.

McDowell explained that he gleaned these facts in secret hearings in recent months. He said the facts came from "some of the most responsible citizens" of the United States.

The shipments, he added, were made "at the very height of atomic research in 1943."

MATERIALS BASIC

Uranium is the basic material of atomic warfare. Heavy water is made from hydrogen atoms possessing twice the weight of ordinary hydrogen. It may be used as a vital ingredient in an atomic pile. This country's atomic piles use graphite instead of heavy water but the Germans during World War II were experimenting with heavy water produced in Norway.

McDowell said his subcommittee had learned that communist infiltration was "deep in the state department, deep in the treasury, deep in the war production board and even deep in the OSS."

As the House committee began its spy hearing today, Rep. John D. Rankin (D-Miss.) urged members to subpoena Henry A. Wallace for questioning.

Rankin made the suggestion as the committee began questioning Alger Hiss, former high state department official, on charges that he was a member of a pre-war communist underground group in the capital.

Hiss, now president of the Carnegie Endowment for Peace, has denied the charges flatly. They were made by Whittaker Chambers, former communist who is now a senior editor of Time magazine.

Meanwhile, Rep. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) acting chairman of the committee, said the group is investigating reports that there is a communist spy ring operating in the government right now.

State Wins Tax Decision

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohio stands to gain millions of dollars in taxes each year through a state supreme court decision involving out-of-state sale of goods from Ohio stocks, taxation department officials report.

The decision yesterday upheld the state board of tax appeals in five test cases involving about $20,000. Hundreds of similar cases are now pending before the taxation department, and each will be affected by the decision, authorities said.

Involved in the question was the taxability of certain accounts receivable. These accounts were in foreign corporations doing business within the state from sale of products manufactured in Ohio but sold from home offices outside the state. The proceeds were retained outside the state but used in the general business of the corporation.

The summarized decision: Where a foreign corporation's accounts receivable result from sale of goods out of Ohio stocks and the proceeds of such accounts are used in the business of the corporation generally, such accounts are subject to Ohio tax.

Horse Books Linked to Murder

'Tough Guy' Found Murdered In His Own Auto Trunk

CHICAGO —(UP)— Police believed today that "tough guy" George (Red) Smyth, was taken for a ride yesterday to repay him for his stick-up raids on handbooks.

Smyth, sometimes known as Smith, was found dead yesterday in the trunk of his car parked on a lonely road off U. S. 66 near Plainfield, 70 miles southwest of here. He was 28.

He had been tortured, strangled, and shot twice through the head. His natty blue gabardine suit was torn and mud-soaked. Authorities believed he had been tied to the bumper of the car and dragged along a gravel road.

Today he lay on a morgue slab. His ultimate destination during a long career of banditry and racketeering that began when he was a kid in Chicago's best side slums.

Will County Coroner E. A. Kingston said tape marks over Smyth's face showed that he had been gagged.

At the time he was taken for the one-way ride, Smyth was out on $65,000 bond as a member of the "Tunnel Gang", a band of hold-up artists which had preyed on currency exchanges and handbooks in the Chicago area.

The gang's leaders, Nick Lococo, 37, and Harry Wagner, 49, have been convicted in connection with the robberies. They also are under indictment for the murder of Otto Freund, wealthy executive, in his Wilmette mansion, in 1946.

Police were convinced that Smyth was rubbed out by the organized underworld to rid themselves forever of the raids on their handbooks.

The Tunnel gang gained its name because of its method of burrowing through walls to gain entry into currency exchanges and bookies.

Could Have Saved Killers

Boys' Village Head Tells of Correction System

Will Rogers, noted humorist once said, "I've never met a man that I didn't like, and I never met a man that didn't have some good in him."

The late Father Flanagan, founder of Boys' Town, Nebraska, said, "There is no bad boy."

After the recent vicious murders in Ohio by two reformatory parolees, John C. West and Robert Murl Daniels, most Mansfielders have found it difficult to agree with these statements.

Could Daniels and West have ever become anything but what they were? Could they, with the proper correction, instead of reformation have become boys or men that everyone would respect?

Rev. Clarence E. Kerr, founder and director of Boys' Village, two and one-half miles east of Wooster on Route 5, believes that they could.

"If I could have had Daniels and West when they were 13 or 14 years old," Rev. Kerr asserts, "they wouldn't have committed the crimes they did."

"Most delinquent boys come from broken homes where in some cases they are not wanted and are put on their own at an early age," he explains.

"These boys, if placed in proper surroundings where there is someone to love them and show an interest in them would become entirely different men.

"Boys should be corrected, not reformed. Our village, which was founded two years ago, is at present correcting boys of the same calibre as the inmates in reformatories," Rev. Kerr continues.

IN HOME ATMOSPHERE

"The boys are living in modern brick cottages in a home atmosphere with a house mother caring and cooking for them. There are no walls, fences or guards at Boys' Village. The boys there are shown the difference between right and wrong without the threat of bodily harm or heavy punishment.

Rev. Kerr hopes to fulfill his dream of a home for every boy. "I believe it is my God-given task to help these boys," he says.

Recently Mansfield Exchange club representatives visited Boys' Village in the hope of finding a worthwhile club project. They believe they have found it. They were impressed with the village, which already has one cottage occupied by 12 boys, with Rev. Kerr's work and his sincerity.

The committee reported to the Exchange club at a recent meeting and suggested that the club begin organizing a community group.

The community group would be composed of representatives from all Mansfield civic organizations who will work together in supporting a Big Brother and Big Sister club in the city.

Boys' Village is a non-profit organization. A home for the homeless, unwanted pre-delinquent and delinquent boys, regardless of race, color or creed.

Every evening the boys have good night prayers with their house-mother. "They express thanks for a home, food, and a place so that they do not have to roam the streets.

Mother Put On Probation

CLEVELAND —(AP)— A pretty, unmarried mother, who abandoned her baby in a hospital and then returned to claim it five hours later, was placed on probation Wednesday by a sympathetic judge.

Juvenile Court Judge Harry L. Eastman gave the woman a one-year suspended workhouse sentence and ordered her to pay $10 weekly to support the seven-weeks-old child in a foster home.

She had asked that the child be boarded in order that she could work. The father of the baby is to appear in juvenile court to answer paternity charges.

Brannan Favors Inflation Curbs

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Agriculture Secretary Brannan told Congress Wednesday that without inflation controls record-high meat prices will go higher. He said other retail food prices also are due to increase.

Brannan testified before the Senate banking committee in support of President Truman's anti-inflation program. He urged a price freeze on meat and meat products.

State Settles Land Action

Appropriation proceedings, filed by the state highway department against Williard T. and Mabel Milligan to acquire part of their land in Monroe township for road purposes, has been settled out of court.

The state, in its appropriation resolution, filed in common pleas court, provided for payment of $215.30 for use of the land. The entry filed yesterday provided for an additional payment of $55.80, making the total payment, $271.10.

The state said the land was needed for improving State Route 39, part of the land to be used as a temporary detour during construction of a bridge over the Black Fork creek.

Part of the land also will be used for slope purposes and for a change in the creek channel.

A total of 252 new automobiles were bought in July while 228 new cars were purchased in June. Other certificates of title transfers filed in the clerk of courts office, show that 57 new trucks were sold in July compared with 45 new trucks sold in June.

During July 2,177 cars and trucks, both old and new, changed hands in the county.

Pens Stolen From Downtown Store

E. R. Kochheiser, treasurer of the Charles Ritter company at 77 North Main street, reported to the police at 10:15 a. m. Wednesday that three fountain pens had been stolen from the store. Total value of the pens was $42.50, according to Kochheiser.

Mrs. James Clapper, a clerk in the store, said two men entered the store about 10 a. m. and looked at fountain pens. She sold a pen to one of the men. While he was paying for it, the other man left to put a nickle in a parking meter.

The first man left after paying for the pen, and Mrs. Clapper discovered that three other pens were missing.

Tribe After Fifth Straight Today

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The Cleveland Indians seek their fifth straight victory today when they meet the Washington Nats at the lakefront stadium.

Manager Lou Boudreau is sending lefty Gene Bearden to the mound in an effort to hold the Tribe's league-lead, which they retained yesterday when the St. Louis Browns defeated the Boston Red Sox. Philadelphia and New York were rained out.

Bearden, who has won eight and lost three, probably will be opposed by Rae Scarborough.

The Indians now are two percentage points ahead of the Yankees, six ahead of Philadelphia and a half game in front of Boston.

Lesnevich Wants Crack at Title

NEW YORK —(AP)— Just one more fight as a light heavyweight then Gus Lesnevich goes after the million-dollar prize — the heavyweight championship of the world.

That is the plan of the veteran Cliffside, N. J. fighter who lost his 175-pound crown to England's Freddie Mills last month in London. Gus, who returned to the United States yesterday, is booked for a return title bout with Mills in Ebbets field Sept. 23.

"I'm going to stop Mills next time," 33-year-old Gus predicted. "That's something I've never said before."

Gus added the fight will be "definitely my last as a light-heavyweight."

Lesnevich hopes Joe Louis will reconsider his announced retirement as heavyweight champion. Otherwise he believes a "confusing" tournament will return.

Statue of Liberty Gets 'Clean' Look

Beauty Treatment Will Cost $500,000

By H. D. CRAWFORD
(CP Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—When a lady has reached the dignified age of 62, she deserves dignified surroundings, particularly when she is the most famous lady in the world symbolizing the triumph of freedom over the shackles of tyranny.

This is what Congress decided in ear-marking $500,000 for cleaning up and improving Bedloe's island in New York harbor to provide more sightly surroundings for the Statue of Liberty and her half million annual visitors.

The National Park service, which is responsible for upkeep of the Statue of Liberty, has been trying to obtain money for improving the shabby conditions on Bedloe's island since the mid-1930's.

Their master plan for completing the development of Bedloe's island as a beautifully landscaped park that will stir the pride of every American who sees it calls for some $2,500,000. Park Service officials are happy, however, that Congress came through with enough money to get this improvement and beautification project well under way.

Hillory A. Tolson, assistant director of the National Park service, went over plans with me for the improvements. The $500,000 is almost as much as the original cost of the statue and its massive pedestal.

About $1,100 will be used for a railing for the new stairs that will enable the public to use the new main entrance to the Statue of Liberty.

Grading, seeding, planting and clean-up work are expected to require about $54,200. Expansion of the heating system into the statue itself will cost $49,800. Demolition of obsolete buildings on the island will take another $26,000.

IRRIGATION NEEDED

Although surrounded by salt water, Bedloe's island needs an irrigation system for watering lawns, shrubs, flowers and trees, and $3,200 will be used for this purpose. Suitable quarters for employes will cost $18,000.

Walks and promenades are badly needed and will be the most expensive item, costing around $224,800. Repair and extension of the sea wall will take $77,900 more. And plans, surveys and supervision expenses are expected to require $50,000.

You will recall that the Statue of Liberty Enlightening the World is the gift of the French people to the people of the United States.

When young Frederic Auguste Bartholdi was selected as the sculptor to design a suitable monument, his native Alsace had recently been seized by Germany in the Franco-Prussian war. He knew the importance of liberty.

Bartholdi visited the United States to plan his work. As he entered New York's harbor, the idea struck him of having a woman representing Liberty, who would trow off the shackles of tyranny and hold aloft a light symbolizing freedom.

The French liked Bartholdi's idea. He went to work on the mammoth statue. Originally, the French planned to give the monument to the United States for the centenary of America independence on July 4, 1876. Funds were slow in coming, however, and it was 1882 before they raised enough money. Bartholdi then completed the statue in Paris and presented it on July 4, 1884, to the United States ambassador.

Americans were to build a suitable pedestal on which Miss Liberty could rest her feet securely. The parade ground inside Fort Wood on Bedloe's island was indicated as early as 1877 by the president as the site for the monument. Six years passed, however, before the pedestal committee had raised enough money to justify breaking ground for the foundation.

On Aug. 5, 1884, a conerstone laying ceremony was held, but shortly afterward the pedestal committee admitted that $100,000 more was needed to complete the work. That was a month after Bartholdi had given the statue to the United States.

March, 1885, came, and still no money had been raised. Congress failed that spring to provide the money on which the committee had counted. Some suggestions arose that America might have to decline this generous gift from the French people because the American people would not provide enough money to erect a pedestal on which Miss Liberty could stand.

Nobody knows what would have happened had not foreign-born Joseph Pulitzer devoted the news columns and editorial page of his newly acquired New York World to campaigning for funds.

Money started pouring in. By May work was resumed. By August enough money had been raised to complete the pedestal. The statue was shipped from France and reassembled on the new pedestal.

President Grover Cleveland, the French ambassador, and Bartholdi were present when the Statue of Liberty was dedicated on October 28, 1886.

Berlin Council Rejects Russian Bid for Control of City

Soviets Ask Full Control Of Currency

750,000 Municipal Workers Go Unpaid

BERLIN — (UP) — The city council rejected today Soviet demands which would give the Russians complete economic control of Berlin.

The Russians had demanded that the council declare the Soviet eastern mark, recently introduced, as the only valid currency for the city administration and the entire economy of Berlin.

The western occupation powers already had agreed to make the Soviet-backed currency valid for 75 per cent of the pay of all 750,000 workers in the western sectors, with 25 per cent paid in western Deutsche marks.

The city council rejected the Soviet demand, made through the Russian-operated German Note bank, on grounds it would deliver the entire city to control of the Russians.

The Russians put teeth in their demand for financial control of Berlin by freezing all Soviet currency funds of the city administration and all business and industries in the western sectors. The result is that 750,000 workers have not been paid for the last two weeks of July.

APPEAL TO WEST

The council, in its reply to the Soviet demand, said that City Treasurer Friedrich Haas has been ordered to begin immediate negotiations with the western powers to find means of meeting the city's running expenses.

Financial advisers to the western occupation powers are still struggling with proposals to relieve the plight of the city council and of business firms, all in dire financial straits.

The Germans have requested that the western powers meet the Russian action by making supplies of new western marks available. The western powers have hesitated to take any such direct action while the Berlin situation was being negotiated in Moscow.

The problem is complicated by belief that economic control of Berlin together with new four-power discussions, may be the price Russia has asked for lifting the 48-day-old Berlin blockade.

Some question of whether the Soviet rail line blockade still was valid was raised when the Russians opened their rail lines from the western zones of Germany for visitors to the Leipzig fair.

The Soviet licensed Berliner Zeitung admitted that the Berlin-Helmstedt rail line, closed to western allied traffic 47 days ago for "technical reasons," still is serviceable.

18-Hour Root-Soaker Rain Aids Crops In City Area

Mansfield's longest and "soakingest" rain in months drenched the city yesterday afternoon and last night bringing cheer to farmers and gardeners.

The steady downpour which continued for about 18 hours left 1.16 inches of rain in Mansfield. The fall in other sections of the state was as heavy as 1.42 inches.

The weatherman said the showers are due to end today and clear and mild weather is in prospect for the week end.

Because of the low pressure area, temperatures ranged only three degrees from last midnight to 10:30 a. m., today at the Mansfield airport. The range was from 56 to 59 degrees.

DAMPENS PICNICS

Everybody was pleased by the rain except picnickers and farmers who haven't harvested their oats and wheat crops.

Corn, now in the small-ear stage, was given a boost by the rain, as were late-planted garden crops.

Weather Bureau Forecaster Milton Davis said that a high pressure area extending from Canada to Texas will replace the storm mass and that fair and mild conditions can be expected into the week end.

The rainfall over the entire state was of the slow and steady variety that soaks into the ground. Columbus reported the heaviest fall—1.42 inches.

Calls Paper Prices 'Fair'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. Clarence Brown (R-Ohio) said today United States publishers "should be appreciative of the fair treatment" they have received from Canadian newsprint manufacturers.

Referring to the new price increase boosting Canadian newsprint to about $100 a ton FOB New York, Brown said the Canadians' profits after many bad financial years are less than those of many other corporations.

And the world market price, he added, is about $200 a ton

"The price average over the years has been fair" to Americans, he said.

Brown is chairman of a special house committee studying newsprint.

Federal Government Boosts Funds For School Lunches

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio has set up its school lunch program for the coming school year with prospects of more federal funds, the state education department reported today.

It was announced in Washington that Ohio had been alloted for the 1948-49 fiscal year the sum of $2,344,665 for school lunches in public, private and parochial schools.

R. M. Garrison, chairman of the division of elementary and secondary education, said:

"The new appropriation will give us a little more money for the school lunch program during the coming year," Garrison said. "The amount also may be increased by re-allocation of funds not used by other states."

Last year Ohio received from the government $2,035,679 for the program in the public schools. The $32,500 state appropriation covered the cost of administration, accounting system, field supervision and auditing accounts.

Garrison estimated that about 1,100 public school units in Ohio, somewhat under half the total number of units, took part in the program last year.

Distribution of the funds was made on the basis of need. Priority was given schools which had the program going for a number of years. Most of the funds were distributed among low income areas of the state, particularly in rural areas. Only a few schools in metropolitan areas participated in the program.

Garrison said the program required participating schools to serve plate luncheons meeting certain nutritional requirements. Lunches made up of tidbits and soda pop were definitely out, he said, if federal funds were to be used.

School children paid an average of 20 to 25 cents for the luncheons, which would have cost considerably more without the federal subsidy. The year before pupils paid an average of 20 cents for a luncheon.

Faces Murder Charge Today

LANCASTER — (UP) — Police said murder charges probably will be filed today against Mrs. Betty B. Gest, 29-year-old mother of five children who said she killed her husband, David, 46, with his own shotgun.

Dr. C. A. Barrow of Fairfield county said Gest died immediately after he was blasted by a 12 gauge shotgun as he lay in bed early yesterday morning.

Mrs. Gest told sheriff's deputies that she and her husband quarreled briefly after returning home from a drive to Newark. She said that when her husband went to bed she opened his bedroom door and shot him with his own gun.

New $63,000 Grandstand Being Built for Crawford Fair

Plan Parade To Celebrate Centennial

Races, Events Open Sept. 6

By CARL BAKER
(N-J State Correspondent)

BUCYRUS—As the time draws near for Crawford county's centennial fair, feverish activity is taking place on the fairgrounds here, where workmen are busy on the new $63,000 grandstand.

Z. O. Roop, fairgrounds superintendent, said that he expected the grandstand to be fully completed when the fair opens Sept. 6. Carl Weithman, Galion contractor, also indicated that the stands will be in top shape when the fair rolls around.

When completed, the new grandstand will have 1,800 regular seats and 208 box seats. It will be 172 feet long and 55 feet and 8 inches wide. Built of concrete and steel, the structure will have wooden seats placed in rows on top of four inch thick concrete sections.

NEW RACE TRACK

The new grandstand will face a new $15,000 half-mile race track, said to be one of the best in the state. The new track is 80 feet wide in front of the stand and 50 feet wide at the back. It was built by Rolly Maximer of Delaware, who has been at work erecting fence posts around the track. Superintendent Roop and Roy Heinlen of Bucyrus are placing two rails on the posts, making a fence around the track.

An army barracks building was converted into a horse barn. There now are stables for 139 race horses with 111 of these stables in the three new barns. In addition, there is a lounge for the race horse drivers and caretakers. Running water is available in each barn and fire hydrants have been placed for fire protection.

Two new livestock exhibition buildings have been prepared for the junior fair exhibits. A new cattle barn was built out of the concrete blocks and other material salvaged from the old army chapel building.

It is expected the picnic room will be made into a lounge for use of the 4-H girls during the fair.

Roop plans to convert the large building, used by the army as a fire department during the period the fairgrounds were utilized as an army camp, into a ladies' lounge and rest room. Modern facilities are available in several buildings.

While the grounds are being put in readiness for the fair, officials are completing plans for the event. George Damschroder, secretary of the fair board, has announced that a fine racing card has been arranged and night fairs will be held. On Thursday afternoon, a big centennial parade is being planned, commemorating the fact that this will be the hundredth Crawford county fair.

Planes Near End of Trip

TOKYO—(U.P.)—Two American B-29 superfortresses were en route to Anchorage, Alaska, today on the last over-water hop of their flight around the world.

They took off from Yakota air base near here shortly after midnight (Tokyo time) this morning.

The final leg of the flight will be made from Anchorage to Tucson, Ariz.

Area Cities Study Two Management Ideas

Plan Adopted In Ashland

Two notable adventures in municipal management, a city income tax and the labor-management-citizens committee, are being studied by officials of many Mansfield area communities.

Ashland has already adopted the labor-management-citizens group idea and has a one per cent city income tax pending on the November ballot.

Galion, Bucyrus and Shelby have given the two management ideas plenty of thought.

Curtailment of many income sources coupled with the high costs of operating a municipality today, has sent city officials scurrying around for new—and painless—ways of providing finances for new improvements of roads, buildings and schools.

The city income tax is believed to be the "fairest and most painless" method of supplementing other city revenue.

PRAISES PLAN

Mayor Louis Mansfield of Ashland is high in praise of the civic committee composed of business men, labor officials, and public authorities.

Toledo was the first city in Ohio and the second in the country to levy a tax on incomes. The move was designed by the labor-management-citizens committee.

Mayor Roy Vaughn of Mansfield said that although he was compiling information from various cities on wages, programs and other municipal data, he was "not considering a city income tax." He said, however, that he was informed of the various programs being carried out in many Ohio cities.

Canada, U. S. To Plan Defense

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Joint Canadian-American plans to defend the North American continent against trans-polar air attacks are expected to be discussed at a forthcoming conference in Ottawa, it was learned today.

Defense Secretary James Forrestal will visit Ottawa on Aug. 15 and 16. The defense department's official explanation is that Forrestal and Brooke Claxton, Canadian minister of defense, will have a purely social visit. However, usually well-informed military sources said the complex problems of atomic age defense will almost surely be discussed.

New All Steel Hangar Added

Willard Airport Expands

WILLARD—Kenneth Heisler, owner of the Willard airport, announced today that a new all-steel prefabricated airplane hangar will be erected at the field. He expects it to be completed within a month.

The building will accommodate three planes on each side, with complete enclosure assured by sliding doors. The erection of another hangar was necessary to provide shelter for the privately-owned planes at the field, Heisler said. It is located south of the present buildings and makes the sixth building for the Willard airport.

Heisler reported that the addition developes the local airport into one of the largest privately owned fields in the state.

The Willard Flying club will hold a swimming party and wiener roast at the lake tonight They will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jackson at Maridor Beach. The group will leave from the airport at 6:30 p. m.

Electric Power Problem

Galion Council Seeks To Kill Mayor's Veto

GALION—Feeling is strong today among members of city council against Mayor H. H. Hartmann's veto of two measures which had been passed by the civic body in an effort to solve Galion's problem of electric power.

Indications point toward an attempt to override the mayor's veto on both measures. It will take five of the seven councilmen to vote in favor to override the veto, according to the code which also requires that council wait at least 10 days before the action is taken.

A spokesman for the city fathers said today that a conference will be held yet this week to discuss the power situation in Galion. At this closed meeting, it is expected that the group will be able to determine whether or not a majority of the seven members will be in favor of over-riding the mayor's veto.

The general opinion of council members is one of "We've got to have power." They claim the local plant is inadequate to meet increasing demands for more power, but also are puzzled about the financing of a purchased power program.

DOUBLE VETO

Mayor Hartmann's veto at Tuesday night's regular meeting of council was placed on the resolution to approve and put into action the recommendations of Service Director John F. Porter for the purchase of power and the rehabilitation of the Galion municipal power plant.

The other veto was on the ordinance which would have authorized the service director to advertise for bids for the purchase of a 3,000 KW block of power from a private company to supplement current produced by the municipal plant.

One observer of conditions suggests: "To insure that your name will go down in history put it on the waiting list for a new automobile."

It probably need not be explained that the "horse book," to which reference is sometimes made, is not a volume devoted to the noble animal mentioned.

Are All Those 'Buzz-Bikes' Licensed?

NOW COMES the motorized bicycle, sometimes referred to as a "buzz-bike," to add to already confusing traffic problems—and seeming to not yet have a definite place in such matters as licensing, policing, and restraint of noise-making propensities of some youthful riders.

Some cities have become considerably disturbed by the frequency of accidents in which these motor-propelled bikes are involved, occasionally resulting in the death of a young cyclist—which is not surprising when it is revealed that some teen-agers boast of being able to attain speed in excess of fifty miles an hour.

Apparently, also, requirement for a license is sometimes overlooked by motor-bike riders and their parents, and, in fact, the procedure in securing a license seems rather complicated, and requirements as to age, motor equipment, "pedals or no pedals," and the like are somewhat vague.

What seems probable is that, as more attention is given this subject, some special form of licensing motor-driven bicycles and scooters will be devised to meet what is already a recognized need.

Of secondary importance to the danger element is the extent to which complaints have been made that some of the youthful possessors of "buzz-bikes" indulge in the sport of racing on residential streets long into the night, with unmuffled exhausts making sufficient noise to prevent sleep, disturb persons who are ill, and create a nuisance that many people feel should be eliminated by parental or police restraint.

Drunks Unwelcome at Convention

APPARENTLY realizing the extent to which misbehavior of a few reflects unfairly on the vast majority of well behaved members, the American Legion of Ohio has issued a stern edict against unbecoming conduct during the thirtieth annual convention being held in Columbus this week end.

"Drunks outlawed" is the way it is put by those in charge of the convention, with announcement that the rule applies to all official sessions and activities, and the specific injunction that liquor is banned from the Sunday afternoon parade, coupled with the warning: "Violation of the parade order, or any part thereof, will be cause for eviction at the point of misdemeanor."

It should be taken for granted that such a fine organization as the American Legion is amply able to police those of its own membership who require restraint and it is gratifying to note that acceptance of this obligation appears in announced intent to prevent a few drunks from embarrassing their sober comrades at the Columbus convention.

Watermelon Evening at Johns Park

ONCE EACH YEAR, for the past quarter of a century, community interest centers in Johns park and the annual watermelon festival which enlivens an August evening for residents of the northwestern part of Mansfield, and their friends who drive out from other parts of the city for this always pleasant occasion.

Tomorrow evening is the time set for this event, which is under sponsorship of the Johns Park association, and for which the customary ample preparations are being made to accommodate anticipated patronage by more than two thousand visitors.

Those who remember the small beginning of Johns park around a third of a century ago, and who have kept tab on the unfailing interest in park development that has been shown by the people living in that section of Mansfield, are keenly appreciative of large part that co-operative effort has played in making this an attractive place for recreation, relaxation and entertainment for adults and children alike.

Plan to spend an hour or so at Johns park tomorrow evening—you'll enjoy it.

Find New Aid for Polio Victims

THOUGH hard-working doctors and scientists have not yet discovered a means to prevent poliomyelitis, new aids keep appearing for the victims of this dread disease. One announced recently in New York City, at the first international polio conference, is an electrical nerve developed by the General Electric company.

Electricity is used as a substitute for the impulses of lost nerves, and causes flabby, inert muscles to move. The effect is of mild exercise on the same principle as that used in the Warm Springs, Ga., water therapy. Without conscious effort by the patient, wasted limbs can be partially restored to usefulness. The mechanism is particularly helpful with children, who cannot comprehend how to use what is left of weakened muscles.

Here is another chapter in the long polio story, to give hope to victims of this disease. These sufferers, so courageous in their affliction, have need of courage yet a little longer. Surely some day soon may bring the long-awaited answer to the mystery of the source of poliomyelitis.

It seems that a California woman was granted a divorce because her husband drank 20 straight cups of coffee—which may be considered sufficient grounds.

One anxious mother inquires: "Is the tendency to lie inherited?"—indicating that the kid's Dad is probably a fisherman.

Friends of Wallace say he has a sense of humor—in which case he must be having a lot of fun out of his present activities.

Sinews of Peace.

Raymond Moley's Analysis

Special Session Baffles 'Average Man'

AFTER a week of bickering over the President's anti-inflation program in Congress, in the press and over the radio, the average citizen must be thoroughly confused.

Some of the President's proposals are so complex that even those, such as this writer, whose full-time occupation is to explain things, must labor for hours to calculate all the necessary forces and balances.

The citizens who are not primarily engaged in following trends and that means nearly all, have other work to do. They must make quick and general judgments.

But such general judgments are the materials on which political strategy is based. The two sides of this political battle—the President and the Republican party—must make gestures which look good superficially and then go to the country to claim credit or fix blame for what happens.

It should be explained that nobody really knows what effect any action by government will have on prices and conditions as a whole. Not even experts know; and politicians can only hope.

Clearly, the President scored something of a first-round victory in calling Congress, although he deserves censure for using his great emergency power for purely political ends. It would be politically foolish for the Republican high command to do what some Republicans have suggested — to toss everything overboard and adjourn. Wiser heads, including that of Dewey, prevailed, and a few measures may be or should be passed.

* * *

Maybe, and Maybe Not.

WHAT are those measures and what value will they have in cutting prices without economic collapse?

Certainly, Congress will not pass the roll-back, which of all proposals is the most shoddy political trick. A roll-back merely takes money from an already over-burdened Treasury and gives it to sellers so that they can sell goods below cost.

Certainly Congress will not pass wartime price control or rationing, because that would compel most Republicans and many Democrats in Congress to stultify themselves. It would be politically ruinous to them. Also, price control must go all the way. Partial control accomplishes nothing.

The President probably meant meat when he suggested rationing. But as soon as the feed situation catches up with meat production, there will be relief anyhow. And if price control were to be imposed, meat would not be put on the market.

Regulation of commodity exchanges is a joke. Speculation does not cause high prices.

Beyond all this, there is a chance that the Republicans may give the President a bit of rope, some of which, they hope, he will use as a halter for himself.

Authority to impose controls on consumer credit may be restored to the Federal Reserve Board. This would have little effect on the general economy, since the total increase in consumer credit since controls were removed is less than $1,000,000,000. This amount is insignificant compared with the increase in the national income.

Authority may be granted to the Federal Reserve Board to curb bank credit. This, however, is a hot poker, as was shown in 1920 when conditions were similar to those prevailing today.

The Federal Reserve curbed credit then, and when a depression came it was called a Federal Reserve depression. The agricultural bloc in Congress was especially critical. Probably Messrs. McCabe, Snyder and Truman are quite aware of that history and for that reason are somewhat hesitant about curbing bank credit.

We may be certain that in the weeks to come natural forces will prevail, while politics will point with pride or view with alarm.

The Nation Today

Now It Is Being Told

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON —The startling story of the Communist-Russian wartime spy ring inside the government is new only to the public.

It's been known a good while to government officials, congressional committees, and the FBI. It is just breaking publicly now.

For example:

The FBI has investigated most of the people—maybe all—whose names have been mentioned in testimony before the House un-American activities committee and a Senate investigating committee.

The House un-American activities committee has questioned many of those people itself behind closed doors.

And a number of those same people mentioned as taking part, knowingly or unknowingly, in the alleged spy ring have appeared before a grand jury investigating the ring.

But, so far as the public is concerned, the story began to break only last week.

That was when Miss Elizabeth T. Bentley, self-confessed soviet spy and former communist party member, appeared before the Senate committee.

The next day the House committee called her in, threw open the doors, and let the public hear what she had to say.

She named names and told of spy rings, made up of wartime government employes, working for the benefit of Russia.

Only one of all those she named is still in government employ. But you will have to go back a bit to understand how all this came about.

During the early war years, Miss Bentley said, she came regularly to Washington from New York to gather secret information for Russia from government employes.

Later she suffered a change of heart and dropped out of the communist party. In mid-1944 she went to the FBI and confessed.

For months she had many sessions with the FBI, putting the pieces of her story together, giving names and information.

One by one the FBI investigated the people she mentioned.

* * *

Grand Jury Probe Lags.

ABOUT a year ago a New York federal grand jury began to investigate the story of spy rings working inside the government.

Miss Bentley told her story at length to the jury. And then the people she accused of spy work were called before the jury.

But after a year of investigation the grand jury still hasn't indicted anyone for spying. It still may do so, because it's still in session, but there's no indication it willi.

On July 21 it indicted 12 top Communist party leaders for conspiracy to overthrow the government. But that was something aside from its year-long investigation of spying by government employes.

At this point the two congressional committees decided to call Miss Bentley here to testify openly before them about the spy rings.

The chairman of the un-American activities committee—Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, New Jersey Republican—said he decided to throw Miss Bentley's information wide open to the public because he doesn't think the New York grand jury will indict anyone anyway.

Thomas wants a special grand jury called together here in Washington to pick up the investigation. Within a week he may ask the attorney general to call the jury.

The Senate investigating committee, headed by Senator Ferguson, Michigan Republican, apparently also figured the New York grand jury investigation wasn't getting any place.

So it called Miss Bentley in and said it was doing so as part of its investigation of the government's program of checking on the loyalty of government workers.

The program was set up after all but one of those mentioned by Miss Bentley had left the government.

GOP Leaders Block Housing Bill Again

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Speaker Joe Martin has again blocked the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing act by a clever parliamentary maneuver. The bill has been passed by the Senate, has been OK'd by the House banking and currency committee, but is now blocked inside the rules committee. It could be passed in about one day if the rules committee would let it reach the House floor for debate.

In order to get it to the floor, Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas of California has been circulating a "discharge" petition, which when it gets 215 names will force the rules committee to discharge the housing bill.

But to block Mrs. Douglas, Speaker Martin decreed that no congressman could sign the petition unless the House was in session. Then Joe promptly recessed the House for a long week end.

This probably makes the passage of a housing act impossible. Because it is required that Mrs. Douglas's discharge petition "lie on the Speaker's desk for seven legislative days," by which time the special session of Congress will have adjourned—if GOP leaders have their way.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Douglas has 163 names on her petition. Sam Rayburn has promised to get her the last 25 names as soon as she gets 190.

Note—If Sam got busy now, with his prestige and influence, he could get 50 names in one day.

* * *

Unfortunate Congressman.

THIS column does not comment on the private life of public figures — except where it interferes with their public duties.

But when a congressman is so frequently under the influence of liquor that he literally has to be escorted away from public functions where he is scheduled to speak, and when he attempts to transfer an enlisted man to an active war front because of personal spite, then the people who elect him are entitled to know about it.

It is the unpleasant obligation of the Washington press to report these things.

Unfortunately, the record of Congressman Virgil Chapman, Democrat of Kentucky now aspiring to the Senate, is not a happy one to recount.

In 1945, Roy H. Hamilton of Berea, Ky., a Navy enlisted man with 32 months duty overseas, was ordered back to the United States after V-E day. But Hamilton had certain political information about Congressman Chapman, who fenagled with the Navy to order Hamilton back to sea. At this point, Senator "Happy" Chandler of Kentucky intervened with the secretary of the navy, told him of Chapman's personal spite, and the order was canceled.

All this is a matter of record.

Equally embarrassing have been some of the congressman's antics on official trips and speaking engagements. Sent to Alaska at the taxpayers' expense on an official inspection trip, the Gentleman from Kentucky fell so lamentably below Kentucky standards when it came to holding his liquor that he had to be taken to a hospital. At one time, Rep. Leonard Hall, New York Republican, had to escort Chapman out of a hotel bar to keep him from embarrassing the official mission.

On another occasion, Chapman got in such a condition while attending a meeting of the House Secretaries Association that other guests pushed him outside the door, where he lay in the hall the fallen Gentleman from Kentucky.

Again, scheduled to speak at the Thoroughbred Horse Racing association last year, Chapman got himself in such a state that the toastmaster could not call on him.

This is the man who now aspires to the U. S. Senate. When a U. S. ambassador makes a public spectacle of himself, he is recalled. A congressman is the ambassador of his own district. However, he cannot be recalled except by the people who elect him.

Unpleasant as the above facts are, it is better that the people of Kentucky know them before an election, not afterward.

Friendship Exhibit.

THE LIBRARY of Congress this week has a special display of gifts from the people of France and Italy in gratitude for the Friendship Train. It includes a special resolution of thanks passed by the French assembly and signed by M. Edouard Herriot, the Grand Old Man of France.

A special resolution from the cities of Italy, bearing the flags of those cities, is also in the exhibit. After the display, these documents will become the permanent records of the Library of Congress, as custodian for the American public.

Listen In on Filibuster

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON — Nowadays Hollywood seems to be catching heck pretty regularly from Capitol Hill, but one of the film capital's major sins, committed many years ago, still has gone unpunished.

This is being written to see that it is not overlooked.

During the presentation of the self-admitted epic entitled "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," it will be recalled that tousle-haired James Stewart, in the title role, overcame his native shyness long enough to stage a one-man filibuster.

And what a filibuster! From the moment he arose to speak, the word spread like wildfire through capitol corridors (the celluloid ones, that is), flicking out to the far reaches of the city and the country.

Legislators, lobbyists and laymen jammed the building, hanging on to his every word, from beginning to end. And, of course, the end involved an unscrupulous old politician shooting himself in the cloakroom—a thing which hardly ever happens anymore, plague take it!—and a clutch closeup of Mr. Stewart and his blonde secretary.

We now will shift the scene to an actual filibuster (despite the usual denials from participants) underway during recent days in the Senate over certain civil rights legislation.

Due to disagreement over the parliamentary procedure involved, no one could be quite objectively certain when the thing actually started, although a sort of semi-arbitrary decision finally was reached.

Once the filibuster was underway the word spread like molasses on a frosty morning. In a matter of hours, most of the senators knew about it, and by next morning there was a rumor abroad in the House of Representatives that something or other was afoot in the other end of the building. There was talk of adjournment to investigate, but nothing came of it.

* * *

As It Really Is.

TWO DAYS later, the double doors leading from the Senate press gallery to the correspondents' work room at the rear swung open momentarily and the chatter of happy young reporters at work flowed out into the august chamber below. Quickly a gallery employe rushed out.

"Quiet!" he hissed, "the senators are sleeping!"

The chastened reporters took a quick look, then chided the government employe for his faulty grammar and exaggerated report. Only one senator was sleeping. The other one was filibustering.

Stubbornly the worker stuck to his guns, claiming the filibustering senator was asleep on his feet, and there was some tendency to agree with him since there was only a faint drone from the Senate floor. However, an investigating committee with cupped ears finally reported that he seemed to be speaking, not snoring.

That, then, was the actual filibuster scene. There was a limit to how much even the highest-salaried legislators in the land could take, and approximately a million and a half dollars worth of them had walked out!

Half the time, the unfortunate reporters who dared not leave the gallery were unable to hear what the speaker was mumbling—for which they duly gave thanks.

There was slightly more life in the rest of the gallery, occupied in shifts by people from Milledgeville and Peoria who were visiting the capital on vacation.

However, it was a little tougher on the guides escorting the parties around, for they were reduced to whispering: "Now that chair down there—the second one from the left in the third row—is where Senator So-and-So sits."

Half the tourists who entered the gallery wide-eyed and visibly excited emerged blinking sleepily and patting back prodigons yawns, after only a few moments exposure to the sodden lethargy within.

So there you have the general atmosphere during ninety per cent of the time in any average filibuster. They should re-issue that "Mr. Smith" movie and re-write some of the plot.

If justice is supposed to triumph, the wrong character committed suicide at the end.

One Man's Opinion

HAROLD STASSEN is looking for a house in Philadelphia . . . it must be white and on the road to Washington.

* * *

If Harold finds an empty house, many will agree that he has superior talents overlooked at Philadelphia.

* * *

Not that plenty of low cost housing is not on the way . . . the only thing blocking it currently is an absence of low costs.

But just as soon as Congress gets around to it we will see low cost housing built by legislation . . . A greater miracle than prefab.

Timely Editorial

Libel Against the Moon.

Until this fellow in Des Moines spoke up, we had supposed everybody found excitement and a touch of other-world magic in a full moon. But from this man, an astronomer by calling, there are only tuttuts for such a notion. His view, presumably based on his own observation, is that the moon in all its candlepower is dull and hardly worth beholding. "Uninteresting" is his word for it, a word which incidentally shocks us.

For, if the Iowa astronomer is right, then every boy and every girl who ever touched hands and looked off into open sky at night is wrong. None, and we choose to be dogmatic about it, ever was disappointed, bored or left unsatisfied by the sight of the full moon's soft brightness and its mysterious shadow-crevices. "Uninteresting" is the most improper of all ways to describe the only sure-fire inducer of romantic moods yet turned loose in the universe.—Kansas City Star.

As Others See It

Merely An Observation.

Latest statistics show the typical American male is due to die at 65. Thereafter, if he lives it is on Social Security and borrowed time.—Detroit News.

Daily Bible Thought

The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God: And if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with Him, that we may be also glorified together.—Rom. 8:16-17.

As Cerf Tells It

In Sunday school, the earnest young pastor told the kiddies, "Some folks thirst after riches, some after power, some after knowledge. Now I wonder what little Horace here in the front row thirsts after?" Little Horace declared promptly, "I thirst after salted peanuts."

Dave Boone Says:

I SEE where Harry Truman on a visit back home stopped for a chat with an old friend who runs a garage. Maybe he wanted to find out the best way to take the rattles out of a political party.

* * *

In Washington it looks as if a fellow could always depend on steady work on a government payroll if he could prove his loyalty was under a couple of investigations.

* * *

It's pretty shocking to crippled war veterans and the kin of dead fighting men to hear testimony that foreign spies were able to get vital secret data from so many members of federal boards and commissions.

* * *

And nothing stirs them more than the evidence that men whose loyalty was under FBI and grand jury investigation were kept right on the job or switched to something more important.

* * *

I hope we get to the bottom of this "true or false program" fast.

Farmer's Diary

Successful Experiment

By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE following interesting items were culled from the News Bulletin of Ohio Forestry Association:

Frank Pancake from over near Negley heard about forest nursery practice in his veterans class; went out in his yard, and gathered cones off an Austrian pine, shook out the seeds, planted them, and they grew! It was as simple as that . . . of course he followed recommended procedures, stayed close to his project and got results.

Others have tried, with poor success. Sometimes one step is omitted that proves fatal to the project. The beds are left uncovered too soon during germination and the birds peck off the seed caps . . . the shades are left on too long during cloudy weather and dampening ruins the bed . . . the first eight weeks is the crucial time because little conifers are pretty flimsy at the start. They scarcely look like trees, just a little tuft of needles on a succulent stem. By summer's end they have shaped up into tree form and by the end of a second summer they are sturdy fellows, oft times ready for planting in the field.

There is need for a wider source of forest planting stock. When farmers, or city people for that matter, can drive a few miles and pick up some forest trees for planting, more trees will be planted. State and federal nurseries have done an excellent job, but they have not supplied enough. People would like to shop a little for trees, walk among the beds, choose pines or spruces or tulip trees to suit their fancy or land requirements, take them home and plant them immediately.

Austrian pine seedlings are recommended for use in windbreak plantings, in Ohio.

* * *

MANY woodlands contain inferior and undesirable trees that "wolf" the space, and prevent the development of more valuable timber. Selling off only the high grade timber is likened to a farmer who would consistently sell his best cows, then wonder why he wasn't maintaining milk production. It is as necessary to practice culling in woodland management as it is in dairy or poultry management.

Federation Urges Women To Vote

"Clubwomen, can you spare three minutes and a half?" is the question posed by the General Federation of Women's Clubs in a pamphlet being distributed from GFWC Headquarters in Washington, D. C., to clubwomen throughout the country under the direction of Mrs. J. L. Blair Buck, of Richmond, Virginia, the Federation president, and Mrs. T. C. Carroll, Shepherdsville, Kentucky, citizenship chairman. The title of the pamphlet is "Why Women Should Vote in the 1948 Election" with "three minutes and a half" given as the minimum time required for casting a vote.

Citing the fact that nearly two million more women than men are eligible to vote in 1948, the General Federation urges its members to accept the responsibility of seeing that all eligible women register and vote. As woman to woman, friend to friend, neighbor to neighbor, the effort to enlist women as voters should be made by clubwomen, the pamphlet states. It says further:

"In recent years only about one in each of three eligible voters went to the polls. This is a citizen deficit of nearly 66 2-3 %. No one knows what the percentage of non-voters will be in 1948, but the year calls for a mighty effort by every lover of democracy to help do away with the deficit government that exists when only one-third of the population exercises its right of franchise. Any government chosen by one-third of its eligible voters tends to be a minority government. Any government elected by one-third of its citizens may be said to operate on deficit citizenship. Women can add their numbers to those of male citizens using the franchise, and the total result will be the restoration of Majority government."

Through its citizenship program, the Federation sets the goal of 47,600,000 informed women voting in November.

Give 'Dawdling' Children Motives to Be More Speedy

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

THE GENTLEST MOTHER can become a bit ruffled over the chronic dawdler. Of all the dawdlers I have ever read about or heard about, I think the one described in the following letter deserves the prize.

"I have a boy, 4, who dawdles to such an extent that he has no time for play at all. He gets up around 7 or 7:30 and it's always 8 or 8:30 before he gets his pajamas off and first layer of underwear on. At the breakfast table he is asked just how he wants his egg fixed, whether he wishes hot or cold cereal (meaning no certain things are forced on him morning after morning).

If he does not finish within a certain time he is asked to get down, and if he does it with poor grace, though told kindly, he is always put on a chair. Then he always explains to me that he wasn't hungry anyway and would just as soon be on the punishment chair as anywhere else.

"Then to lace his shoes requires about 45 minutes. He has certain little chores to do—brush teeth and hair. This requires another half hour. We have offered help but he refuses, saying he can do it himself, doesn't want any.

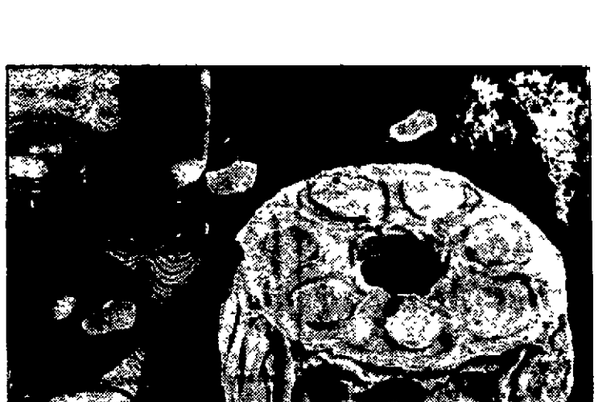
"Then he returns to the bathroom for another hour. If it is fit for him to go outside he does not get on rubbers or hat and sweater under 25 minutes. It is almost noon before he gets out and has only half hour or so before it is lunch time. Taking off his things and washing his hands requires the least time of anything—about 15 minutes. Makes a good start at eating but soon slows down. Has been under the care of a medical specialist.

"He manages to be in bed for his nap at 2:30 and sleeps till 4:30, then through the same routine of bathroom and dressing for outdoors—and has about half or three-quarters of an hour to play before supper. Then into the house, wash hands and to table—through the same wasting of time until he starts to get ready for bed which takes an hour at least. If he spends any time sitting for not getting done in a fairly reasonable time, he sings to himself, talks to his dog, etc. I read to him when he will listen and his daddy plays with him some every day." No reference is made to any other child of the family or to playmates.

Apparently this lad lives within himself and when he must sit for punishment he can dream on. He knows his dawdling vexes his mother, which in turn gives him satisfaction Obviously he needs to have good times, especially with other children, so he can have a motive to speed up in his routines.

I entreated the mother to abandon punishment for the dawdling and even not to say "hurry" to the lad; to cuddle him often and have lots of fun with him, even at helping him at some of his routines and to try to set the stage so he will want to get through with them quickly; and most of all, to attract some playmates, one at a time, to his home and to go with him to where children are.

Of course, there may be many other factors involved in the problem which are not revealed in the letter. My bulletin, "Tot Learning To Be Sociable," may be had in a stamped envelope.



RUM CHIFFON CAKE

• • •

High, Handsome Rum Chiffon Cake Is Delicious Any Time

TREAT the family, or reserve it for your most lavish entertaining, but do try this handsome, high chiffon cake, rum flavored and rum-raisin frosted. It's delicious at any time and its fine, moist texture makes it a good "keeper"—if you can keep it once it's tasted!

2 cups sifted enriched all-purpose flour
1½ cups sugar
3 teaspoons double-action baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup salad oil
7 egg yolks
¾ cup water
2 teaspoons rum flavoring
1 cup egg whites (7 or 8)
½ teaspoon cream of tartar

To measure sifted flour, spoon lightly into cup and level off with spatula. Sift together into mixing bowl, flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Make a "well" in flour mixture and add, in order, salad oil, unbeaten egg yolks, water and rum flavoring. Beat with a spoon until smooth. Whip egg whites with cream of tartar until they form very stiff peaks—much stiffer than for angel food cake or meringue. Pour first mixture gradually over egg whites, gently folding with rubber scraper just until blended. Pour into ungreased 10-inch tube pan, 4 inches deep. Bake in moderately slow oven, 325 degrees F., 55 minutes, then increase heat to moderate, 350 degrees F., and bake 10 to 15 minutes longer, or until top springs back when lightly touched. At once, turn pan upside down, with extreme outer edges of pan resting on two other pans. Let hang, free of table, until cold. Loosen from sides and tube with spatula. Turn pan over and hit edge sharply on table to loosen.

RUM-RAISING FROSTING

½ cup butter or margarine
4 cups confectioners' sugar
⅓ cup milk (about)
½ cup chopped Sultana raisins
2 teaspoons rum flavoring
Food coloring

Cream butter or margarine until consistency of mayonnaise. Add sugar and milk alternately while creaming. Add chopped raisins and rum flavoring. Tint pink with food coloring. Yield: Enough to frost top and sides of Rum Chiffon cake.

Nylon Carpets Now Popular

Lots of interesting things are underway in the rug world.

One manufacturer announces a carpet woven of nylon, and it is claimed that this product cleans like a breeze, without any shrinkage, is virtually indestructable and color-proof, and seemingly can take endless traffic without any alteration of its pile. An expensive product to be sure, but if one is out for a rug of this quality, it would seem that price is unimportant. Anyway, there are plenty of inquiries and orders.

Something else new and beautiful is a hand-loomed carpet with woven metallic yarn. We saw rugs with gold, silver and copper colored accents that really are something. The metallic and wool carpeting has a swirling pattern of thick wool loops, some of which have been cut for shading. In green or brown carpeting, or in a mixture of beige, brown and turquoise, beautiful enough on its own, metallic thread has been interwoven with some of the wool yarn. An exquisite effect is achieved in a green carpet that has a glittering appearance produced by a light mixture of both gold and silver colored threads. With it is a matching cotton drapery with metallic threads woven horizontally. An ideal choice for a really luxurious interior, and likely to become increasingly popular.

Strengthen Family Happiness Through Recreation at Home

FACED with higher and higher costs for the "necessities" of life, many American families are now beginning to spend less money on entertainment and recreation, according to experts of the National Recreational association quoted by the Women's Division of the Institute of Life Insurance. With careful planning, however, the association thinks these families may still maintain their recreation standards and perhaps end up with actually more and better recreation than they had before.

Before a budget-worried family sets up a new recreaton budget, the Association urges that all members of the family review together the possible steps they can take to develop better ways to entertain and have fun together at less cost. One of these ways, says the Association, is through greater use of community recreation facilities, another way is through more recreation in their own neighborhood and a third way is by encouraging more recreation in their home.

Organized and unorganized home recreation, according to the Association, is many times a sadly - neglected technique for family happiness and incidentally for family picnics, gardening, and home-made entertainments all can be managed at little cost and can provide far more rewarding recreation than many kinds of expensive "evenings out."

All sorts of personal and published helps for better home recreation are available in most communities, the Association declares. Its own booklet, "Home Play," can be borrowed from most public libraries. Many federal, state and local government agencies also publish material on the subject. Yet probably the best sources for a family program are the family's own traditions and the parents' memories of happy times in their own childhood.

In the development of better neighborhood recreation, a serious peril to family and community unity has developed in many middle-income communities, where the trend is away from family entertaining because costs of food and refreshments are so high. The simple solution of entertaining less expensively and serving fewer refreshments is difficult to accomplish because of custom, yet some solution is necessary if this kind of community social life is to continue.

To meet the recreation needs of larger communities and entire cities, a dramatic expansion in park and playground facilities and services has taken place generally in the United States since the war. A simple telephone call to a recreation or park department or to one's church or school can usually uncover a whole range of adult and child recreation programs.

In a typical program in a medium sized city are golf, tennis and other athletics, concerts, plays, hobby groups and vacation classes of all kinds for all ages and interests.

Although smaller communities and rural areas have smaller projects and usually less elaborate facilities, they have the tremendous advantages of woods and brooks and fields to explore. Community recreation is developing at as fast a pace here as in the large city. Sponsors of rural projects include boards of education, special recreation councils, community associations, church groups and local government units and programs generally include activities for adults as well as children.

Horoscope

For Friday, Aug. 6.

Very interesting and eventful occurrences may prove most surprising, perhaps thrilling and dramatic. A quick grasp of such sudden opportunity for progress and adventure, are quite likely to develop unexpected personal angles, which should bring about unpredictable contacts or thrilling experiences. Domestic, career or public as well as sentimental relations, could eventually figure in the limelight. Conspicuous progress might crown originality, bold innovation and ingenuity. Fast work tells.

Those whose birthday it is, should hasten to take advantage of sudden openings in which the personal as well as business affairs may prove stirring, eventful and far-reaching. Novelty, ingenuity and daring could promote stirring and dramatic activities of more than passing interest. In fact, public tokens of appreciation or esteem could be among the surprising turns of the dial.

A child born on this day should be richly endowed with energy, exceptional talents, skills and ingenuity, as well as being artistic, cultured and romantically inclined.

Dorothy Kilgallen

Voice of Broadway

Few aspects of show business are as fascinating as the study of what makes a popular song a hit. Unless, of course, you consider the stories behind the songs—invariably as fabulous as the lyrics themselves.

After eight years of trying to set the music world on fire to no avail, Bennie Benjamin wrote, "I Don't Want To Set the World On Fire," and set the whole country singing. Frustrated in his quest for fame as a songwriter, Benjamin put his feelings down, set them to music and made a hit love song of them.

In 1939 Fred Coots wrote "You Go To My Head" chiefly to show the trade that Cole Porter wasn't the only writer who could dash off smash tunes—sophisticated yet sentimental. Result, when Gertrude Lawrence heard the tune for the first time, on the St. Regis Roof, she rushed over to Porter's table and congratulated him. Porter turned to Coots, who was nearby and had him take his richly deserved bow. Today the number is a standard outranked by few other torch tunes, but it continues to be mistaken for a Porter tune, although Coots happily pockets the royalties.

"Linda" was written as a nursery rhyme for Attorney Lee Eastman's daughter, three years prior to publication, by Jack Lawrence. One of this year's most successful young songwriters, Jack was raised next door to Brooklynites Danny Kaye and Sylvia Fine; in fact, learned to play the piano in Sylvia's living room. When he first brought "Linda" to music publishers, several of them liked it, but each wanted to change the name. It was finally published under its original title, and went straight up to the top. Lawrence, who has also written "If I Didn't Care," penned lyrics for "Play, Fiddle, Play" and "Symphony" and gets top billing of "Concerto for Two" with an assist from P. I. Tschaikowsky.

If Al Hoffman's devout father (like Al Jolson's parent) hadn't wanted him to become a cantor and bought him a pedal organ for $30, he never would have collaborated with John Klenner on "Heartaches." Hoffman learned to play the organ by ear, advanced to the piano, then drums, and finally upset his father's plans by running of fto play with a trio. Sweating it out in New York speakeasies, Hoffman expressed his anguish in "Heartaches," never sensing it was destined to become a hit when it was revived 17 years later because of a freak Ted Weems recording.

The war brought its share of hit songs and the yarns behind them are sure-fire material for Hollywood's twist mill. Naturally every tunester was anxious to do an Irving Berlin and knock out World War II's favorites. Frank Loesser did his songs with the fired desire to tell the simple guy's version of the fray. His "What Do We Do In The Infantry," followed by "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition," proved his understanding of what was on every soldier's mind, and he polished off a trio of hits with the solemn "Roger Young" before he climbed back into civilian garb.

Hiding from the long black arm of Hitler's Elite Guard, Al Stone wrote his "Symphony" in France under cover, and it was with the help of the FFI and the underground that he got it published and distributed, for it was a stirring end-the-war entreaty in the original French version titled "C'est Fini." Not until it was picked up and sung by scores of American G.I.'s did Jack Lawrence do the English lyrice that made it an American hit-parade ballad.

Over 15 years ago the late Con Conrad came to Leo Robin and told him that Ziegfeld wanted a song for his star, Helen Morgan, and he wanted it by 8:30 that night. Within three hours Robin had written one of the few non-production numbers in his more than 20-year stretch of songwriting. Ziegfield didn't like the song. A crooner, Russ Colombo, took the song and made it one of his most famous. Fifteen years later, Conrad, Ziegfeld, Colombo and Helen Morgan were memories, but "Prisoner of Love" made the grade again as a revival. Robin had gone on to team up with Ralph Rainger, becoming half of one of the business's most famous teams knocking out a baker's dozen of assorted hits, including Bing Crosby's "Please" and "Thanks for the Memories," now Bob Hope's theme. Leo Robin himself guessed wrong on the last one, bet it wouldn't become a hit, but it did.

Met Cancels Opera Plans For 1948-49

Officials, Unions Fail to Agree

NEW YORK—(AP)—New York's Metropolitan Opera association announced Wednesday afternoon the cancellation of all plans for the 1948-49 season.

The decision was announced after the failure of the Met officials to reach agreement with 12 musicians' unions.

The fate of the coming Met season had hung in the balance after management of the institution refused to grant a 20 per cent pay raise to the opera's orchestra.

George A. Sloan, chairman of the board of directors of the association said it was impossible to meet the union demands "in the face of the 1947-48 deficit of approximately $220,000."

The union demands, Sloan said, had forced the Met, for the first time in 50 years to shut down.

Outlining the proud history of the Metropolitan Opera house, Sloan declared:

"Since 1883, when the Metropolitan first opened, it has suspended operations only on two occasions—in 1882-83 when fire caused damage, and in 1897-98 when financial reverses caused cancellation of one season."

Jersey Nudist Convention's Mosquito Garden of Eatin'

MAYS LANDING, N. J.—(INS)—The Jersey mosquito, famed for its dive-bombing ability, feasted on a veritable Garden of Eden at Mays Landing today.

For the nudists are in town—500 strong—with not a shred of armament to fend off the bugs.

Members of the American Sunbathing association, the nudist enthusiasts convened Wednesday for their 17th annual convention at nearby Sunshine park.

Although their winged tormenters are enjoying a field day, you can forget about trying any surreptitious closeups of the unclad clan.

Although the delegates arrived with their clothes on, Dr. Ilsey Boone, superintendent of the 2,000-acre park, made it clear that any delegate caught with his or her clothes on will be sent home.

"All sessions are strictly in the nude," Dr. Boone, who is 69, declared. "Clothing of any kind is forbidden, without special permission."

A pioneer in the nudist movement, Dr. Boone opened the park in 1939 over protests of local residents, who complain that the body beautiful is not always so beautiful as nature-lovers claim.

'Job Line' Explained

Approximately 200 men crowded the Westinghouse employment offices Tuesday afternoon and many stood in line on the sidewalk outside the office buildings.

P. Bernard Fleming, Westinghouse company official, explained the sudden rush on the employment office:

"This is a normal occurrence which each year follows the vacation period." Fleming said. "Every year quite a number of Mansfielders inquire at the employment office about the possibilities of a better paying position than they have at the present time.

"Transient workers follow the vacation period also," he said. "We are still hiring, but men only and we will probably continue hiring for the next two or three weeks."

Movie Shows Paper Making

Approximately 80 members of the Mansfield Rotary club were entertained with a technicolor movie entitled "Trees to Tribune" yesterday at their weekly luncheon meeting in the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The movie pictured the steps taken by the Chicago Tribune in processing lumber from its forests in Canada to paper for daily publications.

The Rotary club members were impressed with the complete explanation of newspaper work from the lumberjacks in the Tribune-owned forests to the newspaper's editorial rooms.

Dishman L. Burns, Rotary club president, presided at the meeting.

CITY WANTS MANAGER

Report Shows Some Ohio Cities In 'Financial Distress'

More State Aid Forecast By Glander

Findings Given To Gov. Herbert

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Certain Ohio cities are in "financial distress" and further state aid may be necessary next year and in 1950, State Tax Commissioner C. Emory Glander said today.

In a report to Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, Glander pointed out that some local governments have received more money, both from state and local sources. But this has not solved the problem in all cases, Glander indicated.

"Some political subdivisions, particularly certain cities, undoubterly are in financial distress he said, "It may well be that further state assistance in form, either of direct aid of the release of pre-emptive restrictions (state surrender of pre-empted tax fields) may be required in the next biennium."

The tax commissioner called on both state and city governments to make a careful study of "current trends" and use their findings to help guide tax policies in the next two years.

Glander said in his report to Herbert that the amount of state aid to local governments this year represents an 87 per cent increase over 1945, a 43 per cent increase over 1946 and a 10 per cent increase over last year.

This increased financial aid has outdistanced rising costs of local governments, Glander said. He added that there was "every indication that the legislative program for aid to local governments will exceed its original estimates."

Glander said that he is "confident we shall see a further substantial increase in revenues from property taxes" when figures are available for 1948.

Receipts Hit $4,000

Parking meter receipts during the month of July totaled $4,033, it was announced today by Mayor Roy W. Vaughn. The July collections bring the total meter receipts to date to $304,205.26. Total collections so far in 1948 are $26,866.33.

'Funnies' Given Serious Job

Comic Books Explain Atomic Mysteries

NEW YORK—(INS)—The nation's atomic scientists have turned to comic books to explain the mysteries of atomic energy.

The idea was proposed to the nation's physicists by Lt. General Leslie R. Groves, former head of the Manhattan project and a personal admirer of Blondie and Dagwood.

It took some tall talking to convince the scientists that Blondie and Dagwood could best explain neutrons and protons to the American public, but the general—the only one of the group who reads the comics—won out.

Joe Musial, director of comic book department of King Feature syndicate, was called in. The result is a series of cartoons with Mandrake the Magician, Jiggs and Maggie and Snuffy Smith all pitching in with the Bumsteads to explain how the country's scientific brains split the atom.

The cartoons will go on display under Mayor William O'Dwyer's committee on atomic energy at Grand Central palace Aug. 19 to Sept. 23, during New York's golden jubilee.

Musial, who knows as much about atomic energy as the scientists do about comics, sat at a round table conference and bridged the gap between the scientific mind and the popular mind.

Crop Rotation Still Only Way to Combat Brown Rot

Farmers in Richland county and throughout the rest of Ohio's corn belt have nothing with which to ward off brown stem rot of soybeans except crop rotation, the U. S. Department of Agriculture said today.

Since 1944 the department's scientists have been cracking down on the disease in an attempt to determine a cure but as yet have not been successful.

William J. Morse, of the department research center, said, "We are endeavoring to find just one way to curb the brown stem rot but, in the meantime, the only recourse left for the farmer is crop rotation."

Last year, the department's soybean laboratory at Urbana, Ill., and farms in that area tested more than 1,000 soybean varieties including some strains introduced from the orient. But, they failed to find one with resistance to fungus.

Badly affected fields have a frosty appearance which led farmers in the beginning to believe that the brown stem rot effects were the result of frost damage.

In their combat against the spread of the dread disease, plant pathologists of the department even took to the air to study the whited fields on a broad scale.

Photographs that contrasted healthy and infected fields gave evidence that the disease could be controlled by means of crop rotation—a soybean crop only one year out of four.

Requests Aid Of Students

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Dr. Richard G. Morgan, fighting his recent dismissal from the staff of the Ohio State museum Wednesday asked Ohio State university students and faculty members to help him retain his job.

In a letter published in the OSU Lantern, a student daily newspaper, the former curator of archaeology said:

"After 12 years of devoted and productive service to the museum, I was dismissed on a week's notice without charges because I was alleged to be in violation of its policy of employment, a policy aimed at communists or anyone associated with communists.

"Under such a policy of guilt by association not a single staff member of the museum is safe from dismissal. No charges need be made against a person. One is first condemned publicly, dismissed without a chance for a fair hearing and the affair is a closed incident."

Eichelberger Coming Home

YOKOHAMA —(INS)— Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, commander of the famed U. S. Eighth Army, left Japan by steamer Wednesday to return to the United States for retirement.

Ending three years as chief of the American occupation forces in Japan, the general sailed from Yokohama after a farewell ceremony at the dockside.

A large crowd of dignitaries, including Mrs. Douglas MacArthur, bade him farewell. Also present to see him off were hundreds of Japanese.

Navy Enlistment Again Open to Women

The Mansfield Navy recruiting station announced today that the Bureau of Naval Personnel has authorized plans for the enlistment of women in the regular navy.

The enlistment of women and the appointment of the first regular Navy women officers will begin about Sept. 15.

A total of 6,000 women will be enlisted by June, 1950 under provisions of the Women's Armed Services Integration act of 1948. Of the total, 4,500 will be enlisted prior to June 30, 1949 and the remaining 1,500 during 1950.

Beginning about Sept. 15, women members of the Women's Reserve now on inactive duty and ex-Waves will be recruited without preference. They will be enlisted in rates determined by the needs of the service, and women without prior service will be enlisted in the rating of Seaman Recruit.

Women who are 20 but under 31 years of age, high school graduates, U. S. citizens, are eligible for enlistment provided they meet physical and mental qualification tests. New recruits without prior naval service must be unmarried at the time of enlistment.

Waves and ex-Waves who are over 31 years of age are eligible for enlistment if subtraction of their number of years of active naval service from their present age brings their service age under 31.

The term of enlistment will be for three, four, or six years at the option of the candidate. Recruit training for enlisted women will begin Oct. 1, at the Naval training center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Phone Workers Accept Contract

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—J. J. Moran, president of the American Union of Telephone Workers (CIO) announced Wednesday that a new contract with no general wage increase had been accepted for 25,000 long distance telephone workers in 42 states and the District of Columbia.

However, the union, in the contract with the American Telephone and Telegraph company, retained the right to reopen wage negotiations at any time. The new contract was accepted by a vote of 3,043 to 1,610, Moran said.

Taxes Make Women's Faces Too Costly, Congress Told

NEW YORK—(AP)—Does Congress want the American woman to stay beautiful?

Well, if it does, it had better start forking out some cash.

This is the advice of Mrs. Veronica Dengel, a beauty engineer, who says the high cost of keeping beautiful is pricing many women right out of the market.

"Beauty is so important," she said, "that there should be national clinics subsidized by federal funds which would bring beauty within the reach of every woman."

Mrs. Dengel thinks women have every bit as much right to a chunk of the national budget as farmers.

"There are government subsidies for almost every type of education except for the all-important one of enabling American women to learn how to be and remain a race of beautiful, healthy creatures. And this is a vital necessity to preserve marriages in the face of today's divorce rate."

Mrs. Dengel has been campaigning for some time for equal rights at the drugstore counter.

"Congress should repeal the 20 per cent tax on cosmetics," she said, "because lipstick, powder and cream are as essential to a woman as shaving cream is to a man, but the man doesn't pay a luxury tax on his whisker soap."

Convinced that American women are the most beautiful in the world, Mrs. Dengel regards this as "one of the dividends of democracy."

"As long as we have beautiful women," she said, "our men would slaughter any foreign 'ism'."

So, she puts it up to Congress to save America by saving its womanly beauty.

Retail Food Price Trend Following Erratic Course

(By Associated Press)

Retail food prices backed and filled this week across the nation. Pulling them upward were higher livestock prices, and increases in milk quotations in some areas. But acting as brakes were increasing customer refusal to pay the record meat prices, and the increased supplies of fresh vegetables and fruits as more items came into season.

Grocers reported sales volume of fresh meats and some dairy products dropped, while larger quantities of fresh fruits and vegetables were sold. Dollar sales volume was only slightly above that of a year ago and was absorbed by the increased prices compared with last year.

Wholesalers reported that demand, except for meat, continued at a high level. Canned goods moved in slightly larger quantities. Flour and dairy products were in less demand.

Production of butter, cheese and meat declined during the week, but flour output was 17 per cent above the previous week.

The government announced it would continue to support prices of dried eggs in September at $1.26 to $1.28 a pound. In other years, the eggs have not required support in the fall months.

The government also announced it may allow 206,000 additional tons of Cuban sugar to be brought in for domestic consumer use.

Growers prices of late potatoes will be supported by the government at $2.25 to $3.50 a hundredweight between September and next May, compared with last year's rates of $1.85 to $3.25.

The food component of the Associated Press wholesale commodity price index was practically unchanged at 153.42, compared with 153.22 the previous week and 153.68 a month ago. The livestock component, however, was at the new high of 269.78, compared with 261.52 a week ago and 253.52 a month ago.

For two weeks running, the Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food index was unchanged at $7.18, the cost of buying a pound each of 31 common foods.

Communist Ohio Leader Surrenders

Hall Put Under $5,000 Bond

CLEVELAND —(AP)—Gus Hall, 37-year-old Ohio chairman of the Communist party, surrendered to federal authorities here Wednesday to face charges by a New York grand jury that he and 11 others sought to overthrow the U. S. government.

Hall's surrender completed the roundup of the 12 persons indicted July 20 by a special grand jury which sat for more than a year.

The husky 240-pound Hall, well sun-tanned, refused to say where he had been during the past two weeks Federal Bureau of Investigation agents were searching for him.

Assistant U. S. District Attorney John J. Kane said Hall came to his office Wednesday afternoon after first telephoning from the office of Attorney Jerome Land.

The FBI took Hall into custody and fingerprinted him. He then was placed under $5,000 bond to appear at 10 a. m. Friday for a hearing. At that time it is expected Federal Judge Robert N. Wilkin will issue an order for his removal to New York.

Of the 12 persons indicted, seven, including Communist Party Chairman William Z. Foster, were taken into custody the day they were indicted and two others surrendered in the next two days.

The indictments alleged a plot by the Communist high command to bring about the forcible overthrow of the government.

Flying In and Out of Mansfield

Florida Trip Good, But Start's Bad

Charles Brissell and Blaine Burkholder flew their Ercoupe to Miami and Key West, Fla., last week. They reported a very enjoyable trip, in spite of a doubtful start. They had planned to go from Mansfield to Gallipolis for their first refueling stop.

When they arrived near Gallipolis they found the whole Ohio river valley covered with fog.

They flew to higher territory and landed in a weed patch. After landing they discovered the weeds were so long that they were unable to take off with a full load. Consequently "Burky" and all the baggage hitchhiked on a truck to a larger field about four miles away. With the light load, Brissell was able to take the Ercoupe out of the weed patch and pick up "Burky" and the baggage at the larger field.

They experienced no further difficulties in the entire trip. Brissell piloted the Ercoupe on the way down to Key West. Burkholder flew it back to Mansfield.

CROSS-COUNTRY FLIGHT

H. E. Rupp, vice-president of the Gorman-Rupp company flew Walter Buchler and Ray Owens of the Engineering department to Chicago and return in his Beech Bonanza.

Dr. Mabel Emery Huston and her three children, Charles, Edward and Noel were flown to Put-In-Bay and return by Wilbur Shafer in a Seabee.

Stuart M. Weaver flew his daughter to the University of Michigan in a Cessna 140.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rupp flew their Beech to Washington, D. C., on business over the week-end.

Instructor Dale Ropp jr., and three of his commercial students, Wayne Bedson, James Burrage and Roy Crawford flew their Navion to Akron, Pittsburgh and return.

Kenneth Armstrong of Lexington made his first solo at Richland Aviation last week.

Charles A. Robertson received his private pilot's rating and Frederick J. Wright received his commercial pilot's rating from examiner A. Clayton Tschantz.

The following commercial pilot students took their CAA written examinations in CAR and meteorology: Paul Berno, Wayne Bedson, James Burrage and John Hughes. Stuart Weaver, Roy Crawford, Jack Hope and Marshall Seybold took tests in navigation and David Moore in aircraft and engines and CAR. Edward Sage of Loudonville took the ground school instructor meteorology test.

Truman Decries Housing Shortage, But Favors Immigration Boost

NEW YORK—In his opening speech of the 1948 campaign delivered to the joint session of Congress, President Truman said the special immigration law, called the displaced persons act, discriminated unfairly against some displaced persons because of their religion, land or origin or occupation. This law would admit 200,000 persons and charge them against future quotas. He wanted to admit 400,000 "outside the normal immigration quotas."

In the same speech, Mr. Truman said "We desperately need more housing at lower prices," especially "rental-housing and low-rent housing."

Most of the immigrants would settle in the cities of New York and Chicago where the housing situation already is so bad that many native Americans are either homeless or forced to double up.

★

The American citizen is the one who deserves first chance at the housing and no immigrant should be considered until the last American has been accommodated. Of course, he will not be considered first and whoever ventures to quote the Constitution to the effect that our purpose is to promote our own general welfare and "secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity" invites the savage abuse of alien-minded propagandists who will call him a fascist.

During their convention, the Democratic orators said the present displaced persons act was anti-Catholic and anti-Jewish. Since then prominent Catholic clergy have repudiated the Democrats on that issue and two Catholic congressmen, Fellows, of Maine, and Lesinski, of Michigan, have agreed.

The question whether the present act does discriminate against Jews can't even be argued, still less decided, because there exists today in all fields of debate in the United States an absolute verboten against the subject.

It can't even be mentioned and therefore decisions are being made, many of them arbitrarily or under duress, which may one day come to readjustment by impatient demand.

We don't know whether it is true that the present law discriminates against persons who are arbitrarily and politically classified as Jews. But we have high authority for the information that during the years of the flight from Hitler discrimination was practiced in favor of many thousands of fugitives who otherwise probably would have perished.

There was no protest against this discrimination at that time either from those who now complain or from the American relatives of other religious groups of European hostages who gave up their turns to escape so that non-aryans" might be rescued.

Presumably many of those Catholic, Protestant and irreligious hostages later lost their lives. They were in the position of the men aboard a sinking ship who give up their places in a lifeboat to women and children, the ailing and the old.

Maple Lake Party Set For Aug. 11

Association Plans Community Outing

Residents of the South and Maple Lake parks area will hold a community picnic next Wednesday at 6:30 p. m., it was announced last night at a meeting of the parks association.

The party will be held on the playground at Arlington avenue and Taylor road.

The association will provide ice cream, coffee, and soft drinks, and each family will be asked to bring a covered dish.

Association members last night voted to ask the establishment of a city dump at the former Maple lake site to help fill the lake bowl to the level of Maple street. It was estimated that 5,200 cubic yards of earth would be required to fill the lake.

Harold Bruce, member of the Mansfield board of education last night discussed the proposed bond issue, to be presented to city voters next fall, which would complete the school building program and augment the original bond issue of $2,111,000. If the issue passes, then plans will get under way for the erection of a building in the Maple lake and South park areas.

COMMUNITY CENTER

Bruce told association members that the proposed building would be similar to that designed for Newman school district and contain a civic unit for community gatherings as well as school administration and class room wings.

Members last night were assigned routes in a park association membership drive. A house-to-house canvass will be made. Family membership dues will be $1 a year.

Members reported that the black topping on the tennis courts should be completed this week. Frend Boals, Mansfield traffic commissioner, reported that Safety Town would be taken to Maple Lake park next week.

Singers Score In Lakeside Concert

By NITA BRANSON

The Mastersingers received an enthusiastic ovation at Lakeside last night when 2,500, the largest crowd of the summer season, heard a concert by the Mansfield group of 60 men.

Led by A. LeMoine Derr with Dr. F. A. Hoffman at the piano, the Mastersingers sang a group of favorites. The crowd demanded more.

"We haven't any more songs," Derr told the audience at the end of the third encore.

It was the Mastersingers' first test away from home. For the first time they faced an audience in which friends did not predominate and for the first time an auditorium, reputed to seat 3,200 persons, almost three times as large as the Simpson auditorium here.

Their program included Malotte's "The Lord's Prayer," "Ol' Man River," "One Alone" and the "Desert Song" — the last three with Bently Ford as soloist.

For their closing number, Derr had chosen the rousing, beautiful "Battle Hymn of the Republic," arranged by Fred Waring, and the audience was loath to let the chorus go.

Ford also sang two groups, accompanied by Mrs. Marie Platt at the piano. His best were "Land of Degradashun," by McGimsey, and "When the King Went Forth to War," by Koeneman.

Their Lakeside concert over, the Mastersingers will now concentrate on getting ready for their Lake Chautauqua concert on August 28 and 29.

Mansfield will hear a premiere of that concert on August 25, when the Mastersingers appear at the Madison theater under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce.

The concert will be given to help raise funds for the Chautauqua engagement expenses.

Tickets are on sale at $1.50, the usual price for a Mastersingers concert. They may be obtained from any member of the organization or from the Chamber of Commerce.

Public relations officers at the air base said Potts would not be given a leave to visit his father, who was recovering from a serious operation performed Saturday.

Potts enlisted in the Air Force about June 6 in Canton, O., and was transferred to Lackland June 8.

Department rules provide that all who have served on the police force are eligible for pensions unless they have left the force for seasons of cowardice, dishonesty or conviction of a felony.

Molnar was convicted of a felony, but he left the force on request of safety department officials because of his alleged association with racketeers.

Movie Cowpoke Helps Orphanage; Bette D. Approves Economy Wave

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Rod Cameron, the lanky cowpoke of the films, says he plans to donate his salary from one picture yearly to a North Carolina orphanage.

Cameron told me on the "Strike It Rich" set that he fell in love with the kids at the Thompson orphanage in Charlotte while he was making an appearance tour. He hopes to do a picture a year, aside from his other contracts, and give the proceeds to the home. He also would like to adopt a couple of the kids, but may be balked because of his bachelor status.

★

Bette Davis sees a bright note in the Hollywood economy wave. "I think it will do the industry good," she said. "An occasional housecleaning is good for any business."

Dorothy Lamour will not be outdone by cohorts Crosby and Hope. She has set up her own production company, Ridgley Productions, named after her son. She's on the prowl for story properties.

★

They're calling it "The Unlucky Stiff" now. The set of that "Lucky" picture resembles an infirmary. Claire Trevor banged her knees in an auto accident, Brian Donlevy has been suffering a cold and Dotty Lamour is gravel-voiced with a sore throat. Lucky, huh?

★

John Wayne was telling about his unique arrangement with John Ford. Ford tells him when a picture will start. "I'll be there," says Wayne. "By the way, how much?" Ford tells the salary he can afford for Wayne and that's that. The actor's next for Ford will be "The Quiet Man" in Eire next summer.

★

Gail Russell reports she'll go back to Paramount after finishing "Wake of the Red Witch." She's done five films lately, mostly action pictures. "I've gone from jungle to swamp and now another jungle," she sighed on the set. "I think these are the same trees."

★

Richard Widmark gets his first semi-sympathetic role in "Cloak of Innocence," which will also be his first starring film. Producer-Director Otto Preminger predicts Widmark will be a big star in the Bogart-Cagney tradition.

★

Madeleine Carroll goes right into rehearsals for her play, "Goodby, My Fancy," as soon as she finishes "The Fan." She'll play a blonde congresswoman, a role which seems to be popular this season (see Jean Arthur in "A Foreign Affair." Wonder how Claire Booth Luce likes all this? Madeleine will open her play in London, Ont., Toronto and Montreal before Broadway opening.

Injured In Auto Crash

John Coberly, 22, of 17 West Temple court, suffered a possible skull fracture early today when a car in which he was riding struck a pole along U. S. Route 30-S a mile west of Mansfield.

State highway patrolmen said the car, driven by Lawrence D. Swank, 24, of 187 West First street, skidded on the wet pavement about 2 a. m., and went out of control.

Coberly's condition was reported good today at General hospital.

Jay Cusick, 24, of Tiltonville, escaped injury at 7 a. m. today when his car skidded and struck several mail boxes along U. S. Route 30 three miles east of Mansfield. The car was damaged, state patrolmen said.

Children's Theater Production Goes on In Spite of the Rain

"The show must go on," was the motto of members of the Mansfield Children's Theater last night and it did go on in spite of heavy rain which threatened to cancel the second performance of "The Tinder Box."

The children played to a small audience of about 50 at South Park pavilion, but the rain didn't dampen the spirits of either the players or the audience whose enthusiastic applause was out of proportion to its size. A few entrances had to be changed, and the curtain went up about 10 minutes late, but the play went smoothly. Only once in 11 years has a children's theater production been cancelled because of rain, and last night's cast didn't want to spoil that record.

Without question, the beautifully-done play wound up the most successful season of the theater. More than one person in the capacity audience which filled the South Park pavilion bleachers commented: "That was the best play this summer."

Directed by Harold McCuen, principal roles in "The Tinder Box" were carried by Roger Thaler as Don Valoroso, the penniless soldier who "inherited" a magic fortune; Peggy Bayer as the quick-tongued landlady, and Molly Maxwell as the magic Dog-with-eyes-like-saucers."

A central character in the play is the witch, well-portrayed by Myrna Stern.

Last night Ronald Smith played Don Valoroso, Ann Lusignan the landlady, Bonny Rae Battin the queen, Pleasant Kaufman the princess, and Paul Ackerman the dog. The rest of the cast remained unchanged

Others in the cast were: Tommy Clark, as the watchman; Christine Fernyak as the queen; Susie Wolfe, as Princess Dulcibella; Chip Ballentine and John Matthes, as the soldiers; and Adelle Morly, Carol Anne Ramsey and Roberta Weil as ladies-in-waiting.

Members of the theater — all pre-school age — taking part in the curtain raisers included: "Little Black Sambo" — Roger Gordon, Linda Kay Hattman, Gunther Meisse, Pat Taylor, Windy Wiler, Margaret Wier, Suzanne Doppelt, John Isaly and Florence Selfman; "The Three Bears" — Paul Tyson, Martha Sowash, Jimmie Lantz, Diana Daugherty, Kathy Wilson and Paula Lantz.

Scenery for the play was under the direction of H. Reed McBride and Mrs. Bruce McGinty; costumes by Mrs. Norman Hakes and Mrs. Paul Lantz, and production assistance by Mrs. Worth Kaufman.

Rent Office to Hear Vets' Protests on Overcharging

Mansfield Veterans of World War II will get a chance to present their complaints to the rent control office concerning overcharging on priority built in homes, the Office of the Housing Expediter announced today.

Veterans who feel that they were overcharged on the homes they bought or that the house was not built according to specifications were urged to consult their local rent office at 30½ South Main street.

The rent office is now accepting complaints from Vets who feel they were charged more than the ceiling price for their house, or weren't shown "veterans' preference."

All claims will be investigated and where a violation of priority-authorization did take place the office of the Housing Expediter will attempt to obtain an adjustment for the veteran from the builder or seller of the house, rent officials said.

Further information and forms for filing complaints are available at the Mansfield rent control office on South Main street.

Aroused Cardinals Bid for Senior Loop Flag

Whip Giants Twice; Want Dyer to Return, Says Musial

By JOE REICHLER, AP Sports Writer

An aroused St. Louis Cardinal team, concerned over the future of its manager, amiable Eddie Dyer, is out to make his position as secure as possible in the only way it knows how—winning ball games.

Persistent rumors that only a Redbird flag would insure Dyer's return as St. Louis skipper next year have been gaining momentum despite denials from all concerned. And some of these rumors have reached the ears of the players.

HOPE NOT

"I hope it's not true about Dyer being on the spot," said slugger Stan Musial, the team's spark plug, before yesterday's games with the New York Giants. "But if it is, then it's up to us to see that he returns. He's a fine manager."

Since the nightmarish series in Brooklyn where they dropped three straight and sank to fourth place, the Red Birds have made amazing strides.

Yesterday they whipped the Giants twice in an afternoon-night doubleheader, 7-2 and 3-0, to give them a string of five victories in their last six games. The twin triumph, coupled with the Braves' 4-2 defeat by the Cincinnati Reds, advanced the Cards into second place only four lengths back of Boston.

TWO GO ROUTE

Red Munger and Harry (The Cat) Brecheen each went the route yesterday to rack up their fifth and 12th victories, respectively. For Munger it was especially notable since the big redhead had not hurled a complete game since May 18. He had easy sailing after the first three innings once the Cards got him a 3-1 lead.

Brecheen went in the night half of the twin bill. He permitted only two singles and walked one. He fanned seven to run his season's total to 91.

SCORE IN NINTH

Bruce Edwards' single with two out in the last of the ninth scored Gene Hermanski from second with the run that enabled the Dodgers to defeat the Cubs, 5-4. The Cubs had gotten to starter Joe Hatten for three runs in the fifth to take a 4-2 lead, but the Dodgers tallied in the seventh and eighth to deadlock the game.

The Boston Red Sox lost a golden opportunity to take over undisputed possession of first place in the hectic American league pennant race when they were beaten by the lowly Browns in a night game in St. Louis, 9-8. Instead of going to the top by .0002 of a percentage point over Cleveland, they dropped into fourth place, a half game off the pace.

Rain played havoc with the rest of the American league. The scheduled games between New York Yankees and the Tigers at Detroit, and the Philadelphia Athletics and White Sox at Chicago were postponed by rain as was the National league game between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Phillies in Philadelphia. Cleveland and Washington were not scheduled.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The Greeks probably had the right idea in the old days of the Olympics. If a woman was caught even looking at the competition she was bumped off.

There is an old-fashioned idea among some of us that a woman's place is in the home, and not out on an athletic field putting the shot, throwing a spear, and leaping ungracefully over obstacles.

She fits better across a cocktail table—and come to think of it that probably is where our women athletes have been spending their time.

Our women should stay home during the next Olympics, even if the noisier sex from every other country in the world shows up. Our women are doing so badly at Wembley stadium that it wasn't worth the cost of sending them over.

The great days of Babe Didrikson, Helen Stephens and other muscle molls are over for America; and it's a good thing.

A woman should be home cooking and sewing and greeting her tired husband with a big loving smile and not building up muscles with which to bat him across the chops because he tarried at Joe's bar and grill.

Swimming and diving are different. The girls fit that because, after all, the bathing suit is built to enhance a woman's beauty. Diving in particular is more suitable to women. I always thought a fellow looked a little silly posturing on tip-toe gracefully armwaving on the diving boards.

The Olympics should be subdivided, if they insist upon letting women into it.

There should be one division for men composed of sports events and another for women devoted entirely to the domestic sciences, and to diving, with perhaps swimming thrown in for the die-hard muscle molls.

Keep them away from deadly weapons such as the shot, the discus and the javelin and pass a law, if necessary, against their running and jumping. Turn it over to the U.N.

The Greeks insisted that these matters of brawn were strictly for males and they had the right idea.

Somebody had the bright idea of letting the ladies into the competition for the 1928 games at Amsterdam and they are still in there.

America has done well in the past, but has hit a terrible recession and the situation should be called to the attention of Avery Brundage, who can settle everything.

Car Goes Berserk, Injures 20 People

OWOSSO, Mich—(AP)—A speeding midget auto racer veered off the track and careened into a jammed grandstand last night, injuring 20 spectators.

One man, 58-year-old Lynn Heinman of St. John, Mich. was critically hurt when the little car pinned him underneath as it finally came to a stop.

REPORTER TURNS ARTIST—Dwyer Clay, News-Journal staff reporter, turned artist last night and drew the above sketch of Bill Veeck while he spoke at the Optimists' banquet. Veeck was attired in his usual sport shirt.

Veeck Invites Fans To Game . . . Gratis

By CHARLEY STINE

Bill Veeck "sold" himself to Mansfield last night.

The Cleveland Indians' vice-president talked to a gathering of more than 300 Mansfield fans for over two hours and then invited the whole crowd to be his guests at a ball game—free.

The occasion was the Optimist club's benefit baseball banquet at Richland Recreation.

OTHERS MISS OUT

The other members of the Cleveland contingent advertised to appear—vice president Hank Greenberg, sportscasters Jack Graney and Jimmy Dudley and two ball players—failed to make the trip. So Veeck in an effort to make up for it, told all at the banquet to pick a date they wanted to go to the game and he would send them tickets.

Veeck had the gathering howling throughout the evening as he refused to go into the usual form of oratorical speech. He planted his right leg (amputated just below the knee) on the banquet table and just talked, answering any and all quips thrown at him.

APOLOGIZES

He started off with a bang by apologizing for the absence of his "employers," Mr. Feller and Mr. Greenberg. "That's going to be changed next year," he said. "Feller is going to be working for me."

The Indian ex-fireballer was the favorite topic of the evening and Veeck. like Hank Greenberg some time ago, expressed the opinion that Feller was going through a transition. "He has to get better," Veeck quipped. "He couldn't get any worse."

LIKES SATCH

Veeck appeared to enjoy telling stories of Satchel Paige whom he seems to hold much in awe.

Asked about the legality of Paige's hesitation pitch, Veeck replied that Satchel himself didn't care. He has so many deliveries it doesn't bother him. He says "Every time they rule one pitch out I have three more."

Chuckling to himself, Veeck said, "He's a pistol."

Probably the most news-worthy bit of information to come out of the discussion was Veeck's statement that he regards Lou Boudreau as the greatest ball player he has ever seen. He does everything but carry the club on his back, Veeck said.

The husky blond-haired executive was at Richland for at least two hours after the address as he sat around and chatted with fans and told them anything they wanted to know about the club.

Asked by one if he could get world's series tickets, he said, "Sure, I have a connection in New York."

District Tourney Tilts To Be Played Tonight If Possible

BUCYRUS—The district softball tournament, like most other sports events, fell before Jupe Pluvius yesterday, with all games being postponed tonight.

Tomorrow night's schedule includes Marion W and W Provision vs. Komito's, 7:15, Ohio Sport Center vs. Shelby VFW, 8:30; and Gorman-Rupp vs the winner of the Galion-AC game at 9:45.

Cincinnati Reds Enjoy Tea Par[illegible]

BOSTON —(INS)— The almost unbelievable Boston tea party of the Cincinnati Reds ran into its fourth day today as the seventh-place Ohioans tangled again with the National league loop leaders.

The lowly redlegs scored their third straight win over the Braves last night, 4-2, before 18,916 stunned beantown fans It was the fourth straight defeat for the Braves and whittled their loop lead to four games.

A fast Stallcup-to-Kluszewski double play nipped off a ninth-inning Brave rally which netted one run. It gave southpaw Ken Raffensberger the starting Red hurler, his eighth victory.

For four innings the lefthander pitched perfect ball, with not a man reaching first base In the fifth, however, Bob Elliott, the first Boston batter, worked the count to three and two and then powered a homer out of the playing field over right center.

Last year's champions were "Lefty" Bob Keefe in men's singles, Frank Gadfield and Bob Keefe in men's doubles, Mary Saprano in women's singles, and Tom Bloor in boys' singles. All are expected to defend their titles except Bloor who is over the age limit.

There were no girls' singles last year.

The Recreation department junior tournaments which were scheduled to open Tuesday have been postponed because of blacktopping work going on at Maple Lake park.

GIRLS' MATCHES

Girls' matches will be played tomorrow and Monday while the boys' tourney has been postponed until next week.

Tomorrow's girls' matches will pair Kay Gerhardt and Margaret Stiemor at Prospect park and Dorothy Elsasser and Rose Eema at Johns. Both will be two sets out of three starting at 3:30 p. m. Winners will meet for the championship at 3:30 Monday at Johns.

All league games scheduled for city diamonds this evening were postponed shortly before noon today because of the wet condition of the field. However, city recreation Director Stan Kamen expressed hope that the twilight double-header could be played because of Gorman-Rupp's quick-drying diamond.

Yesterday's entire Industrial league schedule was rained out.

Tam O Shanter Joust Enters Second Half

CHICAGO — (UP) — The 90 top pro's of America's golf circuit turned into the final half of the annual all-American open today with Herman Barron, White Plains, N. Y. veteran, one stroke ahead of the field.

Barron, 1946 winner of the championship and most consistent of the field this year, had a pair of 68's for a 136 total at 36 holes and a one-stroke edge on record breaker Ralph Guldahl of Chicago.

Guldahl set a new course record of 64 on his first tour of this tourney links, but he fell apart on his second round for a 73 and a 137. Barron, meanwhile, was steady despite bad playing conditions, and he seemed well on the way toward his second title in May's annual event.

The title this year will carry a $5,000 first prize, big money in golf's business, even though not enough to cause leading money winner Ben Hogan to appear.

A high wind and occasional rain plagued the early starters. So Bobby Locke, South Africa's star, shot the best game of the day.

Legion Set To Play Two Games Today

Mansfield's American Legion Juniors were temporarily stymied in their state tournament drive yesterday but it took rain to keep them from adding their 19th consecutive victory.

Today's entire schedule was postpored late this morning because of wet grounds. The same schedule as listed for today will be followed tomorrow:

The tournament list dropped to seven teams yesterday as three more clubs bowed out. In morning games, Sugar Creek eliminated Springfield, 5-2, Cuyahoga Falls beat out Zanesville, 4-3, and Youngstown ousted Cleveland, 3-1.

Cuyahoga Falls was to meet Youngstown in a loser's bracket game this morning while Cincinnati meets Lima in the winner's bracket. Sugar Creek holds a bye but will play this afternoon.

A double round of play was carded for today with Mansfield meeting Lancaster at 9:30 p. m. in its first game.

OSU Ace After 400 Meter Today

By LEO H. PETERSEN
(UP Sports Editor)

LONDON — (UP) — Dusky Mal Whitfield, already crowned as the 800 meter champion sent his spikes flashing after the 400 meter crown today in a bold bid for one of the greatest 'doubles' in the long history of the Olympic games

The Ohio State ace faced the toughest imaginable competition and yet he ranked no less than a co-favorite for the classic title

To bring home the bacon for the second time, Whitfield will have to conquer the brilliant sprint pair from Jamaica, West Indies—Herb McKenley, the world's quarter-mile record holder, and gigantic Arthur Wint, who just failed to catch Whitfield in the 800 meter run

Not to be counted out either were Whitfield's American teammates, Dashing Dave Bolen of Boulder Dam, Colo., and bull-shouldered George Guida of Villanova. With competition like this, the Olympic record of 46.2 seconds, held by Billy Carr of the U S A., was definitely in danger.

McKenley seemed Whitfield's greatest threat, but the fact that both semi-finals and finals are scheduled today was believed to be a point in Whitfield's favor The rugged American was thought better able to stand the strain of two blistering races on the same day.

Should Whitfield come through he would be the first double winner in the track and field competition.

Bruce Harlan of Ohio State had a chance to score a "double" in swimming as he moved into the second and concluding half of competition in men's high diving. He won the springboard title earlier in the week

Leading Harlan, however, as the high dive went into its final stages was little Dr Sammy Lee of the U S Army Lee had 51.51 points, Harlan 48.94 and Lenhart Brunnhage of Sweden was third with 47.93

A total of seven gold medals are offered on today's program, but the 400 meter run and the high dive were the only ones in which the United States was given a chance to win Thus it was indicated that the Americans' history-making pace, which has carried them to a total of 308 points in the first five days of competion would be somewhat slowed down.

The other five final events today are the 3,000 meter steeplechase the women's 100 meter backstroke swimming, and three shooting titles—the 20 meter rapid fire pistol, 300 meter rifle prone, and the 300 meter rifle kneeling

In the steeplechase, the only Yank left in competition was slim H Browning Ross of Villanova, and he was rated an outsider

Suzanne Zimmerman of Portland, Ore and Murial Mellon of Los Angeles were still competing in the women's backstroke, but Karen Karup of Denmark, who tied the Olympic mark of 1:15.6 in a heat yesterday, was the favorite with Miss Zimmerman the second choice.

One of the most glamorous of Olympic events, the decathlon, was slated to get underway today with three of its 10 events—the broad jump, high jump, and 400 meter run

Heading the U S entries in the competition called 'the most gruelling event of the Olympics,' was 17-year-old Bob Mathias, of Tulare, Cal., and he was ably supported by Irving (Moon) Mondschein of New York university and Floyd Simmons of Los Angeles

The Yanks expect to set the stage for more points and gold medals in the rowing races which get under way at Henley on the Thames river about 35 miles from London
